Luftwaffe Reports Direct Hit on Russian Kremlin CRITICAL TURN IN FAR EAST SITUATION

Heaviest Raid of War Causes Much Damage to Heart of Red Capital

Many Thousands of Incendiary and Explosive Bombs Reported Dropped in Intensive Attack

BERLIN, Monday, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Luftwaffe scored a direct hit on the Kremlin with a heavy bomb and showered "many thousands of incendiaries" and explosives on Moscow Saturday night in the heaviest raid of the war on the Russian capital, German sources reported early today.

DNB, telling of the attack on the Kremlin, declared other bombs falling near the heart of the Russian government started fires of "extraordinary size."

Nearly 100 planes took part in the raid, which DNB said was noteworthy because of the large number of heavy bombs dropped.

Of operations on the extensive front, the German high command reverted to the phrase "operations in the east proceeding according to plan" in Sunday's communiqué.

Simultaneously, the high command fixed the number of Russian planes destroyed since the war began June 22 at more than 10,000 including those on the Finnish front.

Oil Tanks Set Afire
DNB reported that the squadrons attacking Moscow were able to set fires in the great oil tanks south-east of the city despite the Red capital's defense by barrage balloons, anti-aircraft guns and night fighters.

In the course of fighting yesterday, the agency said, German dive-bombers roared down upon two military trains, one a panzer train, in the middle sector of the eastern front and demolished them. Two other panzer trains were heavily damaged, it was asserted.

Arrests Made in German Plots in South America

Arms Caches Seized in Move to Curb Activity of Nazis

SANTIAGO, CHILE, Aug. 10 (AP)—The widening circle of suppressive action against alleged Axis plotting in South America has brought seizure of arms caches and several arrests in the snow-covered region of Puerto Montt, Chile, a principal center of German colonization on the continent.

Chilean officials announced last night that four alleged Nazis were taken with a quantity of arms at Puerto Montt after authorities discovered a plot against Chile's "democratic institutions." Unofficially, it was reported that additional raids and arrests were made in the neighboring towns of Frutillar, Llanquihue and Puerto Varas, with five persons arrested at Puerto Varas, including the local Nazi leader.

Oswaldo Saues, chief of the police investigations department, announced those held would be tried on charges of belonging to "a militarized organization."

He declined to comment on a report by the newspaper La Critica that Chilean authorities investigating suspected Fifth Column activities had discovered that German agents sought to establish contacts with the Chilean army and navy.

According to the newspaper's unconfirmed report, a countrywide inquiry is under way, with particular attention on Santiago and Valparaiso as well as the southern region, where many German colonists have settled in recent years.

The newspaper noted an unusual influx of Germans at Santiago's leading hotels and increased activities of Chilean political parties and groups of a Fascist-like nature.

The Socialist governor of the province, Francisco Sepulveda, reported to the ministry of interior that those arrested were "foreigners." Their nationality was not specified publicly.

The Chilean action was the latest in a series of similar measures in eight South American nations.

LINDY KIDNAP LINK?

John "Chink" Goodman

A report that among the $486 in paper money found on the body of John (Chink) Goodman were some Lindbergh ransom notes, promises a new angle to the kidnap case. The Philadelphia gangster's body was hauled out of Skunk Sound, near Cape May, N. J. More than $30,000 of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom money was never accounted for.

Four Killed in Prison Break at McAlester, Okla.

Warden, Three Convicts and County Jailer Shot to Death

By FRANCIS E. BARDEN
McALESTER, Okla., Aug. 10 (AP)—Warden Jess Dunn of Oklahoma state prison, two convicts and a county jailer were slain today in a bloody bid for liberty by four long-term prisoners who shot the warden, held as a hostage, when officers closed in.

J. H. Pentress, a telephone engineer, who was seized with Dunn, was stabbed, a prison guard was shot in the shoulder and the fourth felon was wounded when Deputy Sheriff Bill Alexander and two other officers trapped the fugitives at the east edge of town, a short time after the break.

The other dead were Tab Ford, county jailer who was shot in the head when the convicts answered commands to surrender with a blaze of fire from guns which they forced guards to throw down from the wall, and these convicts:

Convicts Killed
Claude Beavers, 39, leader of a 23-man break from the prison in 1936, who was serving life for the slaying of a guard in that escape attempt.

And Roy Magee, 37, who was doing fifteen years for armed robbery after a parole from Leavenworth federal penitentiary.

Bill Anderson, 36, under 27-year sentence for armed robbery and who also figured in the 1936 break, was at first believed dead of bullet wounds when examined by the prison physician, but it was announced later that "a spark of life remained." Bullets struck him in the liver and colon. His condition was described as "very, very critical."

Red Army Throws Huge Boulders And Armored Trains at Invaders

MOSCOW, Monday, Aug. 11 (AP)—Stubborn fighting on two new and important sectors of the Leningrad front and the Ukraine was officially reported by Soviet Russia today as the Red army told of throwing huge boulders and huge armored trains at some places in the battle against the invaders.

For the first time the Soviet communiqué mentioned fighting in the Uman sector of the Ukraine, which the Germans said last Friday they already had passed.

On the Leningrad front, the Russians declared, the Red army was resisting at Soltsi, 120 miles due south of Leningrad and in the area where the Germans last week claimed gains.

On the old fronts—Smolensk, in the center, Bel Tserkov, in the Ukraine, and Kholm, on the northwest—the Russians said they were putting up a stubborn fight. In the air, the Russians declared, the Red air force brought down forty-five German aircraft at a cost of twenty-five Russian planes and disclosed that the final check of the German raid on Moscow Saturday night showed ten German planes downed.

Vichy Attitude Seen as Aiding Army Extension

Aid for Germany Said To Show Americans Must Serve Longer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Vichy government's apparent move toward closer collaboration with Germany encouraged administration leaders in the belief today that the House would approve an extension of service for the army's rank and file.

Without making any prediction, Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the military committee said he hoped the developments abroad would strengthen support for the service extension measure. However, another proponent of extended service, unwilling to be quoted by name, said "it certainly should make votes for the bill."

Nevertheless, leaders had virtually abandoned hope of winning an indefinite extension of service as provided in the pending bill.

40 Votes in Doubt
With the fate of the measure apparently resting on about forty uncertain votes, some were more than a little worried about the prospects of getting even the 18-month extension already approved by the senate.

Rep. Boland of Pennsylvania, the Democratic whip, said the issue was so close that he could not predict its outcome with any degree of accuracy because he did not know definitely how many Republican votes he could count upon.

Asked how many Democrats would vote against an extension of service for the draftees and national guardsmen, Boland said:

"There are too many."
May indicated that if the bill's passage appeared in jeopardy, he had a couple of "aces in the hole" which he would play. He declined to say what they were.

No Pressure From FDR
Leaders insisted, however, that President Roosevelt intended to maintain a strictly hands-off policy regarding the legislation, leaving the responsibility for its fate squarely up to Congress.

Opponents of the legislation prepared a wide variety of amendments designed to curb the scope of the legislation as well as some to protect (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Five-Time President of New York Stock Exchange To Be Freed

OSHING, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—Richard Whitney, Wall street's $11,000,000 failure who worked his way up from a mopbucket to a clerkship during forty months in Sing Sing, regains his liberty and name tomorrow and a chance for a fresh career.

The portly former broker—he was five times president of the New York Stock Exchange—will shed his numerical identity as convict No. 94-635 when he emerges from prison at 7 a. m. (EST) to begin a new life at the age of 53 on a New England farm.

Two New Jersey Strikes Seem No Nearer an End

But New York Shipbuilding Company Workers Accept Contract

(By The Associated Press)
Two New Jersey strikes affecting more than half a billion dollars of defense work appeared no nearer settlement yesterday but workers at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, Camden, N. J., which has another half billion dollars of orders, approved a two-year contract.

The vast yards of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company at Kearny, N. J., remained idle for a fourth day as a result of a CIO strike while word was awaited from the Defense Mediation Board.

The Curtis-Wright Corporation's propeller plant at Caldwell, N. J., also was closed but a company spokesman said the Sabbath shutdown had nothing to do with an AFL strike which began Friday and that an attempt would be made to resume regular operations today.

Strikes, Lockouts Barred
The New York Shipbuilding Corporation agreement with the CIO provided for a union shop and automatic wage increases based on living costs and barred strikes or lockouts.

Although reports were current that the government might take over the operation of the Federal shipbuilding plant unless the walk-out there was ended soon, there was no indication in Washington that such a step was imminent.

The Marine and Shipbuilding Union struck last Thursday because of the company's failure to accept a proposal by the Defense Mediation Board that employees who failed to maintain good standing in the union be discharged from their jobs.

Puget Sound Is Mined as Part Of Big Maneuvers

More than 100,000 Men To Take Part in Fort Lewis War Games

PORT LEWIS, Wash., Aug. 10 (AP)—The waters of Puget Sound were reported mined today as the greatest peacetime army ever assembled on the Pacific Coast prepared to repel a theoretical invasion.

In a strange mixture of the actual and the assumed, the army—which will total 100,000 men before maneuvers are completed—prepared for defense of the rugged Washington coast.

On the army's charts, this was the situation:
The narrow entrance to the sound has been mined against an invading fleet which captured the Hawaiian islands several days ago. Fort Worden, chief bastion of the sound defenses, has been placed on the alert by Lieut. Gen. John L. DeWitt, commander of the Fourth army.

Commanding officers of the Ninth Army corps here remained on a twenty-four hour watch, expecting to hear any minute that enemy forces had landed under cover of fog at two or three points on the ocean beaches.

When that word is received, they will set in motion a lightning defense to hold the superior enemy forces at bay until help can arrive from the supporting Third army corps in California.

The army warned shipping not to pass under Ft. Worden's 16-inch guns without specific permission because of the mines—but the army did not say whether the mines actually had been planted.

Maneuvers will begin about 2 a. m. tomorrow with an alert here, during which tactical staffs will learn for the first time where the enemy has landed and details of his apparent strength and objectives.

The 50,000 troops of the Third army are expected to start forced marches northward soon after the first warning.

By Aug. 15, fully 100,000 men, 15,000 pieces of motorized equipment and heavy ordinance and many hundreds of horses and mules will be on the battle lines.

George Predicts Huge Increase in Taxes by House

Boost of about $500,000,000 Likely To Get Committee OK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Chairman George predicted today that the Senate Finance committee would approve an increase not exceeding $500,000,000 in the $3,236,000,000 of new taxes voted by the House.

Commenting that this would mean a total federal tax bill for the next calendar year of more than $13,000,000,000 George told reporters he thought that was about the limit that the American economy could stand at the present time without crippling all-important defense production.

Hearings This Week
The committee will resume public hearings on the bill tomorrow with fourteen witnesses, including representatives of business and financial organizations, scheduled to appear. Later in the week, treasury experts are expected to submit recommendations for an approximate increase of $1,000,000,000 in the House-approved total.

George said it was his opinion, however, that when the committee had the opportunity to study the treasury's proposals, it would not be likely to find more than $500,000,000 in additional revenue of which it could approve, thus bringing the bill's total to approximately $3,700,000,000. This would be in addition to the $9,400,000,000 the treasury has estimated will be raised by existing tax laws.

There were indications, meanwhile, that the treasury experts, in addition to asking for a broadening of the base of income levies (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth declared tonight in a broadcast to the United States that "to my mind, at any rate, your generosity is born of your conviction that we fight to save a cause that is yours no less than ours."

Adhering to an unwritten rule of royal broadcasts that the speaker be alone, the queen read her own composition, here first address to the United States in more than two years, from the privacy of a rural retreat somewhere in England.

Break with Vichy Believed Likely By U. S. Leaders

Washington Concerned over Plans for French To Aid Germany

By J. C. STARK
WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—A break in diplomatic relations with the Vichy government was reported likely tonight in the event it became evident that decisions of its leaders on defending the French empire would mean Germany's gaining full use of strategic Atlantic bases on the French African coast.

Whether American reaction would stop with this, no official would say, but it was indicated that the whole question of Western Hemisphere interest in French possessions was under intensive study here in the light of developments in Vichy.

Slight Hope Advanced
From these, it appeared there was slight hope here that United States diplomacy might yet forestall French capitulation to Nazi demands for a "share" in defending French empire territory—areas more than once declared by American officials to contain potential threats to the security of this hemisphere.

(Dispatches from Vichy said another conference on the matter of French defense was held today and that the cabinet would meet tomorrow. Last night the government made public an interview granted in Paris by Fernand de Brinon, Vichy envoy in the occupied zone, in which he said France had decided to accept the German version of the new world order as opposed to that of Britain and the United States.)

Japan Believed Ready To Ignore Hull's Warning, Make New Moves

All Eyes Turned to Washington as New Crisis Appears To Be Developing; Australia Alarmed

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, Monday, Aug. 11 (AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies declared the Pacific situation was "more full of danger than ever" today in a statement before a special meeting of the Australian cabinet.

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Daily Express political correspondent said today consultations were going on between Britain and the United States "based on the expectation that Japan will stab Russia in the back as soon as Germany's next big offensive has developed."

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP)—A sudden critical turn in the far eastern situation was reported from Australia tonight, and from informed quarters in London from Chinese diplomats and Australian and New Zealand sources it was evident that all eyes were turned to Washington.

Fear was widespread that Japan intends to disregard last week's warnings by Secretary of State Hull and Foreign Secretary Eden and perhaps embark upon moves north and south in a grandiose joint plan of German and Japanese strategists eventually to seize all the strategic points dominating the world's oceans.

It was clear that Britain is clinging to a policy of defense of British interests in the far east with respect to Japan. In former sources said it will be jointly or on parallel lines with United States measures which, it was predicted, would go beyond the present economic blockade of Tokyo.

Threat to Sink Former Nazi Ship Cause of Arrest

Engineer of the Arauca Held by Fort Lauderdale Authorities

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Aug. 10 (AP)—A threat by a Norwegian seaman to sink the former German freighter Arauca before it could be taken to Mobile, Ala., for reconditioning was disclosed by immigration and civilian authorities tonight.

The plan to scuttle the vessel said immigration Inspector R. O. Scott, came to light with the arrest of Edward Hall Harrison, whom Scott quoted as saying:

"We'll never take the Arauca any place. We'll sink her as soon as she is at sea."

A fight in Port Lauderdale, Scott related, followed the statement and Harrison was arrested by Sheriff Walter Clark of Broward county.

Booked on a charge of disorderly conduct now, Harrison later will be brought on for indictment on an immigration charge, Scott said.

The Arauca, chased into Port Everglades near here late in 1938 by a British cruiser, was taken over by the United States last March when alien seamen were rounded up to avert sabotage to various vessels.

Within the next few days the Arauca is scheduled to be transferred to a Mobile dry dock for repairs before being placed into service by the United States Maritime Commission.

Scott reported that Harrison had joined the Arauca's crew last Wednesday as engineer, that he was an admirer of the Nazi regime and that he left the Finnish ship Pandia May 20, 1941, at Philadelphia.

The Arauca is now under direction of the South American line, which recruited a new crew made up almost entirely of Norwegian seamen.

Traffic Crashes Cost Four Lives During Weekend

Fifth Critically Injured in Automobile Accident

(By The Associated Press)

Traffic accidents on Maryland highways and streets took a toll of four lives and critically injured a fifth over the weekend.

Miss LaRue Whitehurst, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ream Whitehurst of Westminster, died in University Hospital, Baltimore, early Sunday from injuries received in an automobile accident on the New Windsor-Westminster road.

A companion, LeRoy Brown, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown of Westminster, was in University Hospital with a possible fractured skull and internal injuries. Physicians said his condition was critical.

A third occupant of the car, Oscar Hess, Jr., 23, also of Westminster, received minor lacerations and bruises.

Returning From Dance

State Trooper S. F. Wilderson, who investigated the accident, said the vehicle apparently left the highway out of control, went over a five-foot embankment and landed in a dry creek. The young people had been to the Westminster Riding Club's horse show dance. They had gone to Union Bridge to take home a fourth member of their party when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Amelia L. Parsons, 65, of West Ocean City was instantly killed and her companion, Mrs. Lilly Baden Truitt, 55, Ocean City, was fatally injured while walking across Berlin-Ocean City highway late Saturday night.

Later, State Trooper Samuel L. Sherwell said that Roland C. Scott, 18, Selbyville, Del., went to the police and said he was the driver of the car that struck the two women.

Sherwell Sues Out Warrant

Sherwell swore out a warrant before Trial Judge J. Edward White of Ocean City charging Scott with failure to stop after an accident in which a person had been injured.

Sherwell said the youth told him that he applied his brakes as his machine struck down the women but sped away because of fright.

Scott was released in $500 bail pending a hearing tomorrow.

In Baltimore, Edward Foss, 59, struck by an automobile early Saturday as he was crossing a street, died several hours later at Union Memorial Hospital where he was taken for treatment of a head injury. Police charged John E. Metzbow, 21, Baltimore, with causing Foss's death. Metzbow later was released in $1,000 bail pending a hearing.

766 Persons Use Pool At Park; Two Reunions Attract 300 Persons

Seven hundred and sixty-six persons paid their way through the turnstiles at Constitution park's swimming pool yesterday, increasing the week's total for August 4 to 10, inclusive, to 2,431 paid admissions.

William R. E. King, manager of the pool, said that the highest number of paid admissions for a single week this season was 4,001, recorded the week of July 28 to August 3.

Two reunions, those of the Crabtree and Reed families, were held yesterday in the park and attracted approximately 150 persons each.

William J. Moran Is Acquitted on Two State Motor Charges

Arrested last Wednesday on Oldtown road, William J. Moran, 627 East Oldtown road, was acquitted Saturday in trial magistrates court on charges of drunken and reckless driving.

Police said his car was "weaving about the road." Lieut. James E. Van and Officers J. E. Sherry and J. J. Gordon, preferred the charges.

Heaviest Raid

was leading the offensive and reported the destruction of sixty-three tanks in the Ukraine, the blasting of 230 trucks and nine batteries in the Dnieper area and the shooting down of thirty-two Russian planes and destruction of seven more on the ground.

Control River Traffic

DNB, official news agency, said Dnieper river traffic was under German control and that two Russian transports of 1,000 and 800 tons were sunk in the river by German artillery and anti-tank gunfire.

A Soviet cruiser was sunk by Nazi planes off the Karelian coast and a patrol boat was torpedoed and sunk by a submarine, these sources said.

The Russian forces west of the Dnieper are now so disorganized that they are unable to make a concerted stand, these sources said, and added that the Russian civil population had been ordered to destroy communications in the German rear and burn houses.

Such destruction was described by the Germans as contrary to international law and would be dealt with "most severely," the Berlin sources said. The burning of grain was called suicidal for Russian civilians.

ENGINEER KILLED AS 116-CAR TRAIN CRASHES

Here is a view of the scene after a train of 116 loaded iron ore freight cars was wrecked in the Baltimore yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Crashing through a switch, the locomotive struck a high tension pole. Seven of the cars piled up on the engine, killing the engineer.

weapons of the Russian civil war as well as the most modern Red equipment.

Steadily organizing deeper defenses in which the enmeshed Nazi legions, the Russians faced the eighth week of trial by fire and declared themselves unafraid of the worst that Adolf Hitler now could throw against them.

From the barren, rocky hills of the north, where front line dispatches said a Finnish infantry charge was smothered by a Soviet avalanche of stone, to the black plains of the Ukraine the Russians reported a steadfast defense. The stones, it was said, crushed two Finnish battalions.

Reds Use Armored Trains

Armored trains, such as those used by the raw Red army to fight off the counter-revolution after the rise of Lenin, appeared once more in action. Another frontline story said such a train supported by infantry which kept in touch by rockets, was used to recapture a village from the Germans.

Quite as important in the battle, was a report by the railway transport commissariat which said that despite persistent German attempts to bomb stations and junctions, there had been no major stoppage of trains since the beginning of the war.

Red army soldiers were declared in the first communiqué of the day to be standing with unshaken tenacity in the same areas where savage fighting has been reported for many days past — in the Smolensk sector west of Moscow, the Korosten and Bel Therkov areas northwest and south of Kiev in the Ukraine and in Estonia where a stubborn fight is being made to defend the extreme outposts of Leningrad.

Red Air Fleet Active

The Red air fleet, which has been reported practically destroyed more than once by the German high command, was said in the official war report to be ranging the front, spraying bombs and machine gun fire on German troops, tanks and trucks on the battlefields as well as in close co-operation with the ground forces.

German airdromes were coming in for a full share of attention of the Red airmen, the communiqué.

The routing of the crack Three-hundred-seventh regiment of the One-hundred Sixty-third division, "advertised as one of the finest formations of the German army" was reported from the Finnish front.

Nazi Attack Fails

The communiqué said this regiment, shipped to the Finnish theater from Narvik, Norway, laid down a four-hour barrage and then launched an attack in waves which were repelled by Soviet artillery and machine-gun fire.

Elsewhere on the front, the communiqué said, thirty disabled German tanks remained on the field after a Red army artillery and tank unit attacked a Nazi tank column by night.

Admitting that "the Fascist hordes have not yet lost their power of advance," Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, nevertheless declared that the Red army had succeeded in solving the Nazi "ruse" of spearing reckless Panzer units behind a foe's lines to "create the semblance of encirclement."

Such tactics have succeeded against under-armed soldiers with weak nerves and poor tactical training, said Pravda, but they have failed against the many Red army frontier units which found themselves encircled in the first weeks of the conflict.

Fighting "cooly and skillfully" most of the Soviet formations succeeded in "breaking through the encirclement in strong and battle-fit bodies," Pravda declared.

Some legislators took the view that the longer the final vote on the bill was delayed, the better were its chances for passage.

"Members who are opposed to any extension of service for the draftees will vote against the bill no matter what concessions are made," one said. "The best chance opponents would have of defeating the measure would be in getting a quick vote."

However, house leaders said they would press for a vote as quickly as possible and hoped to get one tomorrow.

Cops Ride Motor Scooters, Skunks Occupy New Gas-Proof Bomb Shelter

By GLADWIN HILL

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (P)—(The Special News Service)—The government announced that Japanese beetles were hitch-hiking on air-planes . . . the navy advised its men to take the shine off their pants with sandpaper . . . and a Seaside, N. Y., woman's golf shot bounced right into her pocket.

Yes, friends, it was another wacky week—

Served Long Term

Whitney, who pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the theft of $214,000 from client accounts of the New York Yacht Club and the estate of his father-in-law, has served three years and four months of a 5-to-10-year sentence.

The six-foot former Harvard football player and socialist is forbidden under the law from returning to Wall street. He also may not drink, carry firearms or vote unless the governor of New York restores his citizenship rights.

He will be required to make conduct reports to the Massachusetts board of corrections, which will transmit the information to New York parole authorities.

Rapid Rise in Prison

Whitney, whose probation report showed him to have an intelligence quotient ranking him above 99 per cent of his fellow men, was something of an Horatio Alger in prison. He began by mopping cell floors, but soon was a typewriter and worked up to a clerkship in the chief keeper's office, checking other inmates. He also played first base for a while on the prison school team.

Popular with his fellow convicts, Whitney never lost his poised urbanity. As a parolee, he is entitled to a new suit and $20 as gifts of New York state—but will need no railroad ticket.

More than half of the fifty-eight communities showed increases for more than thirty per cent of their rental dwellings, and in half of the communities the average increases were more than 20 per cent over the rents paid in March, 1940, the WPA said.

The WPA said the studies had been conducted by its bureau of research, the rent survey at the request of the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, and the vacancy surveys at the request of the division of defense housing coordination.

Among the areas surveyed (all in May, June or July, 1941), the proportion of identical units having rental increases since March, 1940, the average rent March, 1940, all units and the percentage of increase were, respectively:

Pennsylvania — Beaver county cities (undesignated), 20 per cent, $22.40, 16 per cent; Ellwood City, 16 per cent, $24.50, 15 per cent; Titusville, 16 per cent, $15.90, 17 per cent; Williamsport, 26 per cent, $22.30, 13 per cent.

West Virginia — Morgantown, 48 per cent, $21.50, 31 per cent.

Howard M. Spiker Slated for Trial Tomorrow Night

Howard M. Spiker, 42, of 231 Water street, who was arrested Friday on charges of violating two state motor laws, has been released from the county jail under $112 bond, pending a hearing tomorrow night in Cressington before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman.

Spiker was apprehended by State Trooper Thomas Ward after his car collided with the car of Richard B. Schumbert, of Elk Garden, W. Va., on the McMillen highway near the Celanese plant. No one was injured.

British Optimistic, Duff Cooper Says

Former Cabinet Officer in U. S. on Way to Singapore

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (P)—Alfred Duff Cooper, former British Minister of information, declared on his arrival today aboard the Atlantic clipper that his government expected "great developments in the Far East" and that he was on a mission to Singapore to co-ordinate Colonial administration.

The former cabinet minister, accompanied by his wife, Lady Diana Duff Cooper, and greeted by their 11-year-old son, John Julius, said there was a tendency among the British people to believe that the war had been won.

Rising optimism was evident everywhere, he asserted, but added that the people "should not forget that their greatest danger lies in the submarine menace and in Hitler's efforts to starve England out."

He expressed belief that the reaction of the Japanese government to "the strong measures taken by the governments of Great Britain and the United States as the result of Japan's intrusion into Indo-China" had shown "a distinctly steady and healthy effect."

Duff Cooper said he would remain in the United States about two weeks and would go to Washington in the near future. From there he will fly to San Francisco and take a clipper for the Orient.

The center of British administration in the Far East would be centralized in Singapore, he said.

Break with Vichy

to the French problem while cruising on the presidential yacht Potomac in northern waters.

This was thought also to be under active discussion with British authorities and was cited in some quarters as still another reason for a much-rumored but wholly unverified meeting of President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

It was mentioned as possibly one of the "urgent problems connected with the war" given in London as the reason for Churchill's inability to participate in a war debate in the House of Commons.

Nazis Have Broad Plan

The German demands on Vichy were believed here to be only a part of a broader Nazi plan to gain new strategic bases for intensified air and submarine warfare against shipping in the Atlantic during the winter.

Portugal and Spain were expected to follow France as victims of new Nazi pressure for "cooperation" in defending their possessions. In fact, they were reported already to be receiving German diplomatic attention.

With possession of Dakar on the French African coast, only 1,800 miles from Brazil; the Portuguese Azores and Cape Verde Islands and the Spanish Canary Islands, in the Middle and South Atlantic, Germany would have important new outposts from which to strike at Western Hemisphere and Europe.

United States May Act

President Roosevelt has hinted strongly that the prospect of such Nazi moves would bring preventive action by the United States.

"We insist," the president said on May 27, "upon the vital importance of keeping Hitlerism away from any point in the world which could be used and would be used as a base of attack against the Americas."

As in the case of the occupation of Iceland, any preventive military measures by the United States or Britain to preclude Nazi occupation of strategic bases would be planned and executed in as complete secrecy as possible.

Whether any such moves were contemplated now in connection with the French crisis, therefore, remained only a matter of conjecture.

Hagerstown To Use Potomac River Water

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 10. (P)—Hagerstown will turn to its Potomac River pumping station for the city's entire water supply tomorrow unless heavy rains come before then.

Albert Heard, superintendent of the water department, said 33,000,000 gallons of mountain water remaining in the Edgemont and Smithsburg reservoirs will be held in reserve against any emergency.

Heard explained, however, that it is not unusual to cut off the mountain supply during the late summer months, adding that it is being shut down at least a month later than usual.

The Williamsport pumping station, having a daily capacity of 10,000,000 gallons, can supply all of Hagerstown's water needs. Two pumps have been in operation three days this week. About 6,100,000 gallons were used Friday. Of this, about 500,000 came from the mountain reservoirs.

Meanwhile, Washington county farmers, apprehensive for their corn crops, scanned cloudless skies and hoped for rain.

Mrs. Bremer 89

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Aug. 10. (P)—Mrs. J. E. N. Bremer, who has witnessed the inauguration of every president since Grant, celebrated her 89th birthday today.

Still active and keenly interested in present-day events, Mrs. Bremer's home as a child was in Leesburg, Va., where she attended school during the Civil war.

Rep. Rutherford Dies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (P)—Representative Albert G. Rutherford, Republican of Honduras, Pa., died today. He was 62.

Rutherford suffered a heart attack July 1 and had been ill since. He was serving his third term in the House.

Red Bombing of Berlin Recalls Record-Shattering Air Flights

By WENDELL WEBB

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10. (P)—Soviet warnings issued four years ago, after record-shattering flights from Moscow to the United States, have found their first major echoes in the Russian bombing of Berlin.

After one Russian plane had flown across the top of the world in 1937 and landed near Portland, Ore., and a second had set a new distance mark of 6,262 miles by flying from Moscow to San Jacinto, Calif., the Moscow newspaper Pravda said this regarding Russia's "enemies":

"Let them remember the distance between here and their capitals is much less than the distance to Portland and San Jacinto x x x Our industry can produce as many planes as the country needs."

The words, similar to those used in other Communist newspapers, at that time were believed directed to Germany and Japan.

Russia sent three planes racing toward the United States in the summer of 1937 with the announced intention of proving that commercial transportation between the two nations was feasible.

The first two landed safely. The fate of the third still is sealed somewhere in the far north.

It was the second and longest flight which brought the most widespread acclaim as three tired Russians stepped from their single-engine ship at San Jacinto on July 14, 1937.

T. Clyde Ryan, builder of Charles L. Lindbergh's New York-to-Paris "Spirit of St. Louis," said the Russian ship was a marvel of compact efficiency.

It was the quiet boast of the ship's pilot, Mikhail Gromov, that "it's all the work of our own engineers. Every rivet, the entire design, is ours."

He suddenly cancelled a tour of the western part of the dominion and returned to Melbourne for a special full meeting of the cabinet tomorrow.

At the same time Navy Minister William Hughes declared in a statement that "whether there is to be peace or war in the Pacific is for Japan to decide. The situation has deteriorated but it is none of our doing."

Dispatches from Bangkok Thailand capital, said there was an extraordinary cabinet meeting over the weekend and intense diplomatic activity in which United States Minister Hugh G. Grant was a prominent figure. The press in Thailand was giving great prominence to Japan's activities at her new bases in adjoining Indo-China.

The Tokyo radio said Dutch nationals in Shanghai and Japan had been advised to leave without delay.

Uncertain over U. S.

Informed sources here said Japan's hesitancy thus far to follow the occupation of all Indo-China by a movie into Thailand was governed by her uncertainty over United States action.

"If Japan believes that American will not fight, but will only help others to fight, Japan will plunge the South Pacific into war," one observer declared.

Chinese diplomats here said Japan is counting on the "United States policy of helping others to fight rather than fighting herself."

Tokio Paper Belligerent

Some quarters cited comment in the militaristic Japanese newspaper Kokumin, dismissing the Hull-Eden warnings as "blustering harangues," as evidence that Japan intends to ignore these warnings.

There was some sharpness in comments on Hull's recent statements in the British press and semi-official quarters. One retired English diplomat declared that Hull had given no indication that he did anything more "than increase aid to Britain, Russia and China and increase its verbal denunciation of the dictators."

But another informed source counseled moderation and said, "It is realized in Tokyo that certain very mysterious movements of high American statesmen may be a prelude to the end of America's policy of non-belligerence."

Many Australians in London were sharply critical of the present British policy which seems to depend upon the United States taking the lead in the Far East, but others were inclined to wait until Washington's attitude is clear.

New Zealanders appeared to take a similar view.

Similar Crisis Recalled

It was recalled that a previous crisis in the Far East was set off last February when the Australian premier suddenly announced that the war had assumed a phase of the "utmost gravity."

Japan at the time was engaged in stubborn peace negotiations with Indo-China and Thailand.

That crisis blew over with Japan biding her time until late July when she acquired southern Indo-China bases in negotiations with Vichy.

One result of the flurry was the vast strengthening of British forces at Singapore.

Informed sources say Japan hopes to serve both her own and German interests, perhaps in twin drives to the north and south.

Perhaps as an indication of informed British quarters that England's position is complicated by some indications that new fronts in the "war for the world" may open in Thrace and the Western Mediterranean.

One source went so far as to describe these possibilities as matters of "momentary imminence."

Axis Purpose Revealed

German and Bulgarian forces reportedly concentrated in Thrace have "only one conceivable purpose," he declared. This is to drive toward the Dardanelles against the Turks in a co-ordinated thrust through Russia toward Odessa.

The general plan would be to complete German control of the Black Sea as a stepping stone to the oil fields of the Caucasus, Iraq and Iran and to assure German transportation of these supplies by water.

A companion threat, in the British view, is the possibility of German occupation of Dakar on the western African "hump" which is reported to have been demanded of Vichy.

A Free French source in London said this is a "very real threat."

Construction of a trans-Saharan railroad, which is reported under way, has "only one meaning—use of this line for German military communication" from the Mediterranean shore to the Atlantic coast of Africa, he said.

RAF Sends Many Planes to France

German-Occupied Coast Raided by Largest Force in Weeks

LONDON, Aug. 10. (P)—The RAF stepped up its daylight sorties over the English channel and the German-occupied coast of France today, dispatching planes across the gully Strait of Dover which observers said were the largest force up in some time.

The sky was cloudy and visibility was good but not good enough for observers on the chalk cliffs to follow the operations across the water. The waves of planes headed toward Boulogne.

This evening the forays were described officially as an attack on German shipping off the French coast—in which a supply ship was reported to have left flames from two bomb hits, and a German fighting plane was shot down—and several offensive sweeps over northern France.

No opposition was encountered in the air over France, the air ministry said, but two British bombers and one fighter were lost over the channel.

Last night German planes raided the coastal areas of East Angles and East Scotland but, according to the official report, few of them penetrated far inland. Several places in East Angles were bombed and at two there were "a number of casualties."

An attack on a town in northern Scotland killed five persons. One bomb struck a first aid post, the British reported. There was no report of RAF offensive action during the night.

yard tomorrow after a one-day work stoppage.

The men stayed away from their jobs on construction of two of the largest drydocks in the world yesterday in protest against a provision of a general agreement for Atlantic seaboard shipyards providing for time and a half overtime and Saturday pay.

The spokesmen said conferences probably would be initiated this week between representatives of local union 454 and dry dock associates and Kauffman-Krenneman, which hold contracts for the drydock project.

Strike Threat at Allentown

A new strike threat appeared in Allentown, Pa., where the CIO United Auto Workers issued a call for a walk-out at 8 a. m. Monday at the Mack Manufacturing company. A union official said the strike would not be called off unless the company agreed to make a 15-cent an-hour wage increase retroactive to Monday, Aug. 4. Present scales range from 64 to 95 cents an hour.

Wage increases ranging from 8 to 15 cents an hour were announced in Seattle for employees of the Boeing Aircraft Company. A union official said the raises would boost averages from approximately ninety-two cents to approximately $1.02 an hour.

Striking AFL workers at Nevada Consolidated Corporation's China mines division voted yesterday (Sunday) to submit to the National Mediation Board their dispute over demands for union recognition.

The strike, affecting some 2,100 men at the company's properties at Santa Rita and Hurley, N. M., which hold vital defense orders, was called Saturday midnight after negotiations bogged down.

Pop Sure Told Mom!

One evening a couple of weeks ago Pop wanted to go to the movies. But Mom said she was too tired, said she had spent all day doing the family washing. Well, right there Pop hit the ceiling. He told Mom plenty about how silly it was to do the washing at home, and he told her that from then on our laundry was going to the Crystal every week. Now Pop's in a better humor; Mom isn't tired any more, and she has more time to spend with me.

First Submarine Will Be Subject Of Radio Number

Story of Tin Fish Built by Perry White Will Be Related

By HERMAN ALLEN
NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The story of the first submarine used in warfare—and it was a highly successful one—will be told on Cavalade of America Monday night (NBC-Red 6:30).

The tin fish was built by Perry White, a young Southerner, in an effort to break the blockade of Charleston, S. C., during the Civil war. He sank the U. S. S. Housatonic but failed to raise the blockade.

Mad Wilson, fashion authority from Bergdorf Goodman, is to appear on Big Sister (CBS 10:30 a. m.) and Carrie Jacobs Bond's birthday, and Kate Smith (CBS 11 a. m.) is going to remember her by singing some of her songs—"The Perfect Day," "God Remembers when the World Forgets" and "Do You Remember?"

Myster Feature

The Mystery Man is taking his vacation, and Asey Mayo, that old Cape Cod salt who recently voted one of ten most popular fictional detectives, is to take his place (NBC-Red 1:15 p. m.). Monday's story is "The Mystery of the Priceless Ampergris," and adaptation of Phoebe Atwood Taylor's best-selling mystery, "Octagon House." Asey will be played by the noted Shakespearean actor, Joe Lathrop.

Having covered West Point, Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth move their Vox Pop show (CBS 7 p. m.) to the naval air station at Pensacola, Fla. The program will originate in the air station's 2,000-seat theater.

Wilbur Shaw, the famous auto racer, who is to be referee of the Soap Box Derby at Akron, O., is to be interviewed during the Alfred Wallenstein concert (NBC-Red 7:30). On the other side of the mike will be announcer Hugh James.

former resident of this city, has been visiting Frostburg relatives during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Taylor, Frost avenue and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ogle, Hancock, are touring Canada.

Mrs. George McLuckie Sr., Mrs. William Walsh and Miss Rachel Hughes, Frostburg, and Miss Eleanor Grose, Frederick, left last week for Texas to visit Donald McLuckie, a private in the U. S. Army, stationed at Fort Wallace.

William Guffy, Akron, Ohio, is the guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, Welsh Hill. Miss Margaret Howat, Pittsburgh, is a guest of her sister, Miss Agnes Howat, Beall Lane.

Miss Louise Van Dyke, Wilmington, Del., daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Thomas R. Van Dyke, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Neal and family, Bowersy street.

The Rev. and Mrs. Edgar W. Beckett and family, West Main street, are spending their vacation at a summer camp at Tompkinsville, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Cornish, Elyria, Ohio, former residents of this county, are guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cornish, Gunter hotel. Mr. Cornish is planning to move to Bradenton, Fla., where he will manage a hotel which he recently purchased.

Because of a minor physical disability, George Richardson, a private at Fort Banks, Mass., received an honorable discharge from the army and returned to his home here.

Mrs. Burman Starkey, Eckhart, Mrs. Leota M. Davis, Loo street, and Miss Alvina Dudley, Middletown, are patients at the Miners hospital.

of the strikers and their friends.

The principal speaker was Charles Erwin, a CIO leader, New York, who also addressed a similar meeting in the local playground about two weeks ago. Other speakers were John Sobezak, Pittsburgh, a representative of the Amalgamated Clothing Association, and Charles Despena, of Cambria county, also a representative of the ACWA. All of the speakers assured the strikers that they intended to continue their organization work until the head of the shirt factory signs on the dotted line of a CIO union contract, and that they would stay until this job is completed 100 percent.

At the close of the meeting Sergeant Blair of the state motor police placed Miss Mary Louise Eck, of South Fork, who is directing the strike under arrest for not having an American flag on display at the meeting which is required by the code to be done at all public gatherings of this nature. The maximum fine is $100.

There are at present nearly 150 operatives at work in the plant and all departments are working satisfactorily. The wage rate at present is thirty-seven and a half cents an hour, and this will be increased to $15 for a forty-hour week September 1.

Several days ago Burgess Reich issued an order and posted signs establishing a "Quiet Zone" on account of several persons living in the vicinity of the shirt factory who are invalids, and by this action all singing, cheering and booing when employees entered and left the factory was discontinued.

Personals

George Kemp, a resident, was removed yesterday to the Community hospital in Somerset near his home discovered living in an alley near his home unconscious.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Shoemaker, Pittsburgh, arrived here last evening to spend several days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shoemaker, and their daughter, Miss Marian Louise, who is spending her vacation with her grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wesley and daughter, Elsie Jayne, Confluence, spent the weekend visiting Mrs. Wesley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac J. Bradburn.

Miss Louise Imbler accompanied Mr. and Mrs. George Jeffries to Washington, D. C., where she will spend several days at their guest.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Shaffer and daughter, Philadelphia, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cook. Dr. Shaffer is the former secretary of the Board of Home Missions of the Reformed church in the United States.

Carlton Nesly and mother, Mrs. Edna Nesly, York, arrived here yesterday to spend several days visiting friends in Meyersdale. Until a year ago the Nesly family resided here. They are guests of Prof. and Mrs. D. H. Bauman.

Tressler Orphans' Boys Band Will Give Concert

Youths from 9 to 18 Will Arrive in Oakland Today for Musical

OAKLAND, Aug. 10.—The "boys" band from the Tressler Orphans' home at Loyalville, Pa., will give a concert on the lawn of St. Mark's Lutheran church at 7:45 p. m. Monday.

This band is composed of forty boys ranging in age from nine to eighteen years and is considered one of the best organizations of its kind. The street in front of the church will be closed to traffic and the management of the William-James hotel has given permission to use the lawn there as an amphitheater so that every one may enjoy the music without disturbance. The concert will be held in the high school auditorium in case of rain. A free will offering will be taken.

The boys will arrive tomorrow morning and will be given lunch at the Lutheran church and will then be cared for in Lutheran homes for dinner, overnight and breakfast the following day.

Legion Has Picnic

Members of the American Legion held a basket picnic today at the New Germany recreation area.

It was a joint picnic of Proctor Killow Post, No. 71, Oakland; and Wilson Fidler Post No. 113, of Kitzmiller. All ex-service men and their families were invited. The Oakland Boys' Band furnished music.

Marketing Cards Needed

Because of the wheat marketing quota program, voted effective by wheat growers on May 31, it will be necessary for producers to have a wheat marketing card if they expect to sell any wheat harvested in 1941, according to John H. Carter, county agent.

Producers may secure these cards without any cost by personally signing for them at the county agent's office at Oakland.

If producers have harvested more than fifteen acres of wheat it is important that they contact the office, having their wheat acreage checked, to determine whether or not they are eligible for a wheat marketing card, Carter said.

Material Is Arriving

Materials for Garrett county's third quota of Red Cross garments are coming in in large quantities, Mrs. E. Z. Tower, county A.R.C. chairman, has announced.

The sewing quota to be completed within the next eight or ten months consists of over 4,000 pieces. These include 100 hospital shirts, seven-hundred operating gowns, seventy-five hospital pajamas, 100 layettes (twenty-six articles in each) eighty toddlers' packs (twenty articles in each), 10 girls' cotton dresses, fifty girls' woolen skirts, fifty women's woolen dresses, 120 girls' dresses, fifty boys' shirts and seventy-five boys' shorts.

The second knitting quota, consisting of twenty women's sweaters, ten men's sweaters, twenty children's sweaters, ten shawls and fifteen pairs of men's socks, has been completed. The third quota is much larger.

Every available volunteer in the county is needed if these projects are to be fulfilled, Mrs. Tower said. The chapters in Garrett county are being urged to keep pace with the other 3,700 volunteer chapters in the U. S. A.

Brief Items

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hardesty maintained an "open house" several nights recently where a night blooming cereus had been causing much interest. One night there were four fully developed blooms on the plant, and upon another occasion there was another. Quite a number of persons called to see the unusual plant. It has been in the possession of the Hardestys for seven years but this is the first year that there have been any blooms. From its appearance there will likely be more blooms in about two weeks, it was thought. Such plants are rare in any community of this climate.

Members of the Holy Cross camp on Deep Creek Lake entertained youths from the Swallow Falls CCC camp today. There was a mass and communion breakfast followed by reception of members into the Holy Name Society. The mass was said by the Rev. Fr. John C. Broderick, pastor of St. Peter's church, Oakland, and he also welcomed members into the society. A baseball game between the two groups followed in the afternoon.

Several Talks Made
Miss Thomas, founder and director of the American Folk Song Festival which grew out of the centuries old tradition "The Singin' Gaiter" of the Kentucky mountains, told the story of the tradition as well as giving some of the highlights of the American Folk Association, an outgrowth of the Mountain Choir Festival, the American Folk Song Festival and other folk organizations. Jack Preble also spoke briefly on this subject.

Miss Esther Eugenia Davis, blind West Virginia girl singer, was also on the program and a local group presented folk dances directly by Bryan Shockey.

The program closed with the audience, which numbered around 400 singing the ballad "Down in the Valley."

Miss Thomas will leave tomorrow for New York where she will see her publisher concerning her most recent book which is soon to be off the press.

Population of All German-Occupied Lands Asked To Balk Nazis

LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Colonel Britton, British radio broadcaster leading the "V army" campaign, has urged the people of German-occupied territories to "buy anything and everything and make quite certain nothing is left for the Germans."

He advised those with savings to buy food and other supplies now "before your money becomes worthless."

To farmers starting their harvests, he declared: "There are ways in which you can keep your crops hidden. . . I just want to remind you that in a few weeks time, Nazi agents will be coming around demanding to know what you've got and offering you paper money in exchange. Well, you will know what to do."

Col. Britton urged those with insurance to file claims for every minor loss or injury because, he said, "nearly all the insurance companies are now directly controlled by the Germans and companies get rich by relying on people not to bother to make small claims."

He also suggested that those able to get credit at banks should borrow as much as possible and buy commodities.

Again he asked the people to continue chalking the "V" for victory sign, saying "you know and I know what it stands for and so do the German troops and the Nazi agents, and they don't like it."

York Ballad

capture of 130 Germans reached the old mountaineer's ears through Miss Thomas who presented him in England in 1932. Miss Thomas met Setters when she was a court stenographer in the mountains of Kentucky. She heard him singing in the courthouse yard on court day and recognized his Elizabethan tunes and words.

Setters' ballad tells the story of York's early days as a mountain farmer and hunter and reaches its climax in the retelling of his capture of the German machine gunners who were holding up the American advance in the Meuse-Argonne sector.

Dr. Meyers Urges Parents To Read To Their Children

"Crusader" Points Out that Custom Has Almost Disappeared

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
Nothing else in this column, in my books or from the platform, has had so much of the spirit of the crusader as my efforts for years to get parents to read to their babies and young children. It's almost like a religion with me. So you can imagine my satisfaction in learning that so many parents who read this column are reading to their children who are too young to go to school, judging from the number of requests for selected list of books for that purpose.

Numerous public libraries are emulating the first world-famous Mother's Room of the Youngstown Ohio Public Library, whose purpose is to stimulate and guide mothers in reading to their infants at home, by establishing similar departments. The Supervisor of School Libraries, of a State Department of Education, writes:

"Please send me your list of books to be read to children from the ages of two to six. It is surprising the interest we find among parents in reading for the preschool years."

Demand Increasing

Similar requests have been received from numerous local libraries. I foresee the day when practically every public library, whether it has a Mother's Room or not, will have to make ready to meet increasing demands by parents who wish to borrow books from which to read to their little children at home.

From the biographies and autobiographies of great men and women who lived a hundred or more years ago, you learn that they were read to in infancy by their parents. Gradually that custom almost wholly disappeared. But, like other good things abandoned for years, reading to babies and young children in the home would have come back eventually, whether any one had advocated its return or not.

Keeps Up Crusade

Nevertheless, I like to think I have had a part in speeding its return, for I have been advocating it since 1915. In 1925 I reported some of the results of reading to the Myers babies in my first book, "The Learner and His Attitude," and in books and magazine articles since then I have continued the crusade.

Readers of this column know that I try never to let them forget about the values involved—cultivating early, lasting love of books and reading, promoting reading readiness, ease and forcefulness of expression, stimulating creation and invention, building habits of concentration, fostering child-parent comradeship, making youngsters happy.

Please don't forget to enclose a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp, when you write me for a selected list of books to read to the baby and young child.

Solving Parent Problems

Q I have a child who will begin school in September. How may I prepare him well?

A Make sure he has been carefully checked by your doctor and dentist, has been vaccinated against small pox, and inoculated against diphtheria. Also check with your doctor on his diet, hours of sleep during the summer or have an older child do so. See that he plays out of doors a great deal with other children his age, settling his own quarrels and fighting his own battles. Be sure he learns to respect property in the neighborhood and learns to respect the rights of other people everywhere.

Lester Is Appointed

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 10 (AP)—Appointment of Trooper Robert E. Lester as fingerprint technician in the Criminal Identification Bureau was announced today by State Police Superintendent John W. Bosworth.

Bosworth said the addition of Lester to the staff was the first of several planned to aid in combating subversive activities in West Virginia.

Lester had been stationed with Company B at South Charleston.

TWO-BID RESPONSES

MOST contract players, who use opening suit bids of two to guarantee enough strength to get the side into a game contract, employ the same responses as a half dozen or more years ago. A raise of the suit indicates four cards of it or three headed by the queen or better, and at least one honor trick in the hand. The showing of a new suit proclaims a biddable suit in a hand containing at least one honor trick. A bid of 3-No Trumps indicates at least an honor trick and a half. Lacking any of these, the response is 2-No Trumps.

Many of the leading experts, however, have been experimenting with two entirely different kinds of responding theories, really contrasting theories, as indicated by these two hands.

1. ♠ 6 3 2 2. ♠ 6 3
♥ A 5 2 ♥ 10 8 7 5 4 2
♦ J 6 3 2 ♦ J 6 3
♣ 8 7 5 4 ♣ 7 4

Opposite an opening bid of 2-Spades, the followers of one theory would bid 3-Hearts on No. 1, to show the heart ace. Devotees of this top-showing procedure have worked it out so thoroughly, in some cases, that they have a whole formula for responses. With two aces, they proclaim that fact by bidding 4-No Trumps. With one ace, they bid the suit containing the ace. With a trick and a half in high card strength, but no ace, they bid 3-No Trumps. Lacking these, they bid 2-No Trumps. Their idea is that the original bidder has some safe declaration or declarations in mind and wishes only to know

Need for Organizing Army Medical Department Shown by America's Wars

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

An army doesn't begin to fight battles without realizing very soon that it needs to organize an army medical department. Looking back on America's wars, that became evident in the first of our conflicts. At Lexington and Concord there was no medical department organized and everybody was evidently too busy fighting to notice the lack of it.

At Bunker Hill one of the most noted American surgeons, Dr. Joseph Warren, fell fighting as well as several other patriotic physicians, but after Bunker Hill it became evident that some organization must be formed. The large number of wounded showed the need for military hospitals and shortly one was established at Cambridge.

In Revolutionary Times

During the Revolutionary War there were several disgraceful quarrels among the medical men at the top, but an effort was made by Washington and even General Gates to put such matters on a non-personal, non-political basis.

Supplies and care of all kinds were naturally cared compared to ours. Some of the wounds characteristic of frontier fighting as described in the case records make frightful reading. I find incidentally, the case of a man who was completely scalped, recovered, and was quite satisfied with his new cranial covering even though it did not consist of hair.

Every conflict has I suppose, its peculiar forms of wounds. The

Simpler Income Tax Blanks Are Needed

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has suggested that the payment of federal income taxes be made as simple as possible, "through a simple agency and on a simple form," filed at the local post office and sworn to before the postmaster.

The need for simplicity in the lower income returns has long been obvious and it is the more important of the two things suggested by the president, although an additional agency for returns might prove helpful.

The rules and regulations that the income taxpayers are required to read and the blanks they are obliged to fill out are needlessly complicated and confusing.

A proper motive underlies the extensive requirements now obtaining, this being the purpose of making the tax burden as equitable as possible by taking into consideration all possible combinations of income and deductions for all reasonable deductions. But in the effort to contribute to equity, the complexity of the system has too often defeated that purpose.

Statistics have shown that only about half the people who file income returns pay any tax. The net incomes of the remainder being below the taxable level. But of those who do pay a tax, around nine out of ten come within the lowest bracket and nearly all of these derive their incomes from a straight wage or salary. Yet they are required to file returns on a form explaining exhaustively the various kinds of income, how to treat what is entirely exempt and partially exempt along with sundry combinations and permutations. A blank for the lower bracket taxpayers sought to suffice with provisions for income, exemptions and allowable deductions.

One example of the needless complexity is to be seen in the ten per cent earned income credit, which the taxpayer deducts when he starts computing his tax, and the ten per cent defense surtax he must add at the conclusion of the computation. In most cases the subtraction and addition virtually balance each other.

It is to be hoped that the Senate Finance committee will give some heed to the president's good suggestion in this respect. In view of the talk we are hearing about still more taxes, it would do well to bring in more of the millions who do not pay any tax and at the same time ease somewhat the burden of the middle class taxpayers, who without that equitable revision would be subjected to a double increase—in rates and the lowered exemption—while other taxpayers would get only one boost. The Hanes idea of a low rate and everybody paying something toward the defense burden is certainly worth consideration. Only so much juice can be squeezed out of a lemon, and it would be fair enough to take in the other fruits.

The Pork Barrel Gets A Proper Setback

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES did quite the proper thing in sustaining President Roosevelt's veto of the measure that would have authorized $320,000,000 for defense highway purposes, although it is regrettable that the margin was close. The Senate had overridden the veto.

This newspaper believes the president was dead right in vetoing the measure for the simple reason that, instead of serving the purpose for which it was ostensibly intended, it was turned into a pork barrel grab.

The president some two months ago, in a special message to Congress, requested that the highway bill carry a appropriation of $25,000,000 to correct "critical deficiencies" in the highway system that might interfere with defense. Congress, however, boosted this appropriation a hundred millions and allocated the fund in accordance with the best pork barrel tradition. Instead of allocating the money to defense areas around army posts, defense plants, air ports and the like, where access highways are sorely needed, Congress proposed that the money be distributed among the states according to population. That simply meant that a lot of the money would have been spent where it was not urgently needed.

The situation around defense plants and army posts in Maryland indicates the acute need of adequate defense highway connections. That need obtains at such points in a number of the States, but defense production and army training are not going on in every state. The president is quite right in his stand that the urgent highway necessities be kept as such.

A Case in Which There Is No Hurry

ILLUSTRATIVE beyond all words that one could write of the coddling of radical elements by the Roosevelt administration is the case of Harry Bridges, Pacific coast agitator. Indeed, the soft-gloved handling of this alien agitator by the Roosevelt administration already smells to high heaven and it soon may become a national scandal.

It now has been three years since the Labor department filed a warrant against Bridges charging him with violation of an American law. This law provides that any alien who shall be proved to have been at any time a member or affiliated with any organization seeking the overthrow of our form of government by force and violence shall be deported.

First came a hearing—sixteen months later—under auspices of Secretary of Labor Perkins which was a farce. The proceedings were so conducted, F. B. I. Chief Hoover subsequently said, that Bridges's witnesses were enabled to give false testimony with immunity. A second hearing was inaugurated last March under Justice department auspices. This hearing hardly commenced when it was recessed eight days to permit Bridges to attend his union's convention.

More recently he has been traveling about the country, airing his views. In the middle of July, Bridges had the gall to make a round of the offices of congressmen in Washington, telling them how to vote on the labor section of the May draft deferment bill. Yet, at this writing, no decision has come regarding the charges against him.

Contrast this gentle handling of Bridges with the properly expeditious deportation of two German propaganda agents; they were out of the country four months after the charge was made.

The Ownership Probe of Radio

THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION is working up a headache over whether it is a good thing for newspapers to own radio broadcasting stations. The commission has not raised the question whether it is a good thing for politicians, or those engaged in any business or profession but the newspaper business, to own radio stations. Newspapers, it seems, are suspect.

Considering the FCC's genius for probing, it had to get around to this subject sometime. The law setting up the commission does not mandate it to carry the burdens of the world, but it likes to be busy—invariably at the wrong time.

The last extracurricular adventure of the groping FCC was its order to certain radio chains to disperse and desist. The order was issued just as a special agent of the president, named to look this field over, got down to work. He did not have time to get started, much less report to the president, when the FCC uttered its edict. Recently, the FCC found that it had been unfair in setting a time limit and had to extend the time. Its authority to take such action has been challenged.

In puzzling its mind about the press and radio, the FCC is tinkering with the constitutional guaranty of freedom of the press. By press is meant all publications, not merely newspapers and weekly news and commentary publications. The press is free within the necessary limitations imposed by fairness and decency. But the radio stations are licensed.

Every six months radio stations are compelled to go to the FCC and ask for permission to operate for another six months. Naturally they avoid offending the FCC and its appointive authority. Either by silence or by subtly devised propaganda in their commentaries and generous allowances of time to federal agents, they lean toward the New Deal. That is something which is not compatible with the theory of free speech and a free press.

This would seem to be Grandma's cue to begin knitting some wool stockings for next fall's debutantes.

The Browser's Bookshelf

By MARSHALL MASLIN
The Browser has a friend who never reads a book. . . . Imagine such a fellow. He doesn't live in the same world with you and the Browser, or he belongs to a different species.

Don't get the idea, however, that he can't read. He can. He went to college and had to read books there, but the habit didn't take.

It is a habit, you know, and sometimes the Browser thinks children shouldn't be taught too young to read. This man was talking about reads road signs and he reads contracts before he signs them and he reads this newspaper, and occasionally reads a magazine. But he isn't a Reading Man and from the Browser's point of view he misses much.

Even when he was a child he read little. He didn't read fairy stories, didn't read boys' books—Alger or Stratemeyer or G. A. Henty or James Fenimore Cooper. Didn't read "Tom Sawyer" or "Huck Finn." . . . Played baseball and marbles, went hunting and swimming, and felt asleep after supper and had to be lugged off to bed.

So, grown up, he has never lived in the world of Shakespeare, in the city of Romeo and Juliet, in the kingdom of Lear, and never has heard Mark Anthony delivering his matchless, malicious funeral oration. Knows nothing of Anatole France's Penguin Island, Never met Mr. Pickwick or James Barrie's sweet old mother, Margaret Ogilvie.

Bacon's essays are strangers to him; and so are the matchless Montaignes and Charles Lamb's, as well. He has heard Ben Johnson's "Drink to Me Only" but he has not read it. Never got excited about Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," nor got along with Robert Louis Stevenson, never lived far away and long ago any idle days in Patagonia with the great W. H. Hudson, nor read the poetry of William Yeats or wandered along the Monterey coast with Robinson Jeffers.

Thomas Mann's "Magic Mountain" is nothing to him, and Romain Rolland's "Jean-Christophe" is unknown country. "The Shopshire Lad," James Stephens' "Crock of Gold," Somerset Maugham's "Of Human Bondage," Max Beerholm's essays, Samuel Butler's "Way of All Flesh," "Tristram Shandy," Feuchtwanger's "Power," and none of the books of Hemingway, Willa Cather, Booth Tarkington, Storm Jameson, Louis Bromfield, Ring Lardner, William Faulkner, Robert Nathan, Erskine Caldwell or hundreds of other writers mean anything to him.

What does Plato mean to him? or Voltaire? or Rochefoucauld? or Cervantes? or Heinrich Heine? or many a lesser light? . . . Was he ever excited about John Galsworthy? or Hugh Walpole? or Donn Byrne? Did he ever travel "The Broad Highway" with Jeffery Farnol? or go down to the sea with Masefield's "Dauber" or ride out a great storm with any of Joseph Conrad's captains? or win a red badge of courage with Stephen Crane?

No, not my friend who boasts that he never reads a book. The Browser is not saying that his not-reading friend does not have a good life. He has, in fact, a thrilling life. He has many friends, many activities. He hunts and fishes and lives actively. He creates material things and in his own way is something of a poet. He can dream dreams and make them come true. He's a good, solid, useful and friendly man but he can't see how any human being can spend his time reading books. He thinks that's a waste of time and he looks upon all book-writers as strange creatures who have "funny ways of making a living." He has plenty of fun, himself, but not that exciting heightening kind of life the Browser and his kind derive from reading the great literature of the world. So the Browser does not envy him, but neither does he—in his turn—envy Marsh Maslin.

Percentages Are Often Deceptive On Defense Work

By PAUL MALLON
WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Of all misleading truths perpetrated upon an unsuspecting public through government publicity, the announcement of increases in defense production by percentages is most common and most deceptive.

They never tell you how many tanks or guns or what was produced. That is a military secret—a convenient secret from the official publicity viewpoint. But they announce, as did OPM the other day, that production of light tanks (eighteen tonners) increased the stupendous amount of 1,260 "per cent" the second quarter of this year, over the first.

This sounds reassuring. It is not. If one tank was produced the first quarter and thirteen the second, the percentage increase would be 1,200 per cent, but the number of tanks produced would be a measly fourteen. . . . Actually we are producing about 250 light tanks a month.

The advertised increase for medium (the good twenty-seven-tonners) was 237 per cent. If we were turning out three a day the first quarter and eight a day now, we would have about 237 percentage points but not that many tanks, considering what has been given to Britain.

When you recall the Germans claim 13,000 Red tanks (not percentage points) were destroyed in forty-six days fighting and the Reds avow 8,000 German tanks ruined in the same brief period, you will get the idea we are considerably behind in both percentage points and tanks.

You may also deduce this United States Army is not going anywhere very soon to fight with percentage points. . . . Note—Technical explanation of the colossal 1,260 "percent" increase in light tanks is that production was virtually at a standstill the first quarter, as the army was turning production into a new model. OPM agrees this particular official figure may have been misleading, says it wanted to give out something and accurate figures are secrets, which is all true.

Production at Standstill

Atlantic Battle Won Now
First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander has said British losses in the Battle of the Atlantic were the lowest in July of any month in the war. He could have gone further and disclosed they have been running only 3,000 to 4,000 tons (hardly more than a fishing smack) a day, and most of this in the South Atlantic.

The all-war daily average of British losses is 10,000 tons per day and for a time the Germans were sinking as much as 30,000 to 40,000 tons a day over a period of weeks. . . . The Battle of the Atlantic, once regarded as the most crucial British front, has thus been clearly won, at least until such time as the Nazis clean up in Russia and are able to release their bombers for a new attempt.

This may explain the complete cessation of agitation for conveying by Navy Secretary Knox and others. . . . The news dispatches said Mr. Roosevelt won his fight against the $320,000,000 congressional roadbuilding grab, and that is the way it will go down in history, but it was not that way when the results of the House vote were first tabulated. The question was whether the House should pass the bill over PDR's veto as the senate did by a 3 to 1 margin. At the end of the House roll call the bill was passed. The president had lost. But canny Speaker Rayburn delayed the announcement of the totals, while Leader McCormack and the whip, Pat Boland, scurried through the Democratic side persuading votes to change. What they used as persuaders will never be disclosed, but it must have been tempting. (Sometimes postmaster appointments, judicious and other patronage matters are settled in the spur of such moments.)

In a few agonizing minutes they got enough votes for Mr. Roosevelt to win by a margin of two.

Hard To Keep Up

This column talked the president's personal physician, Admiral Ross McIntyre, a few days back for going to Congress to request an appropriation that had already been made weeks before for medical research in tropical diseases. The point made was that government running out on all sides so fast Admiral McIntyre did not know what was going on. Now comes a message from Mr. Charles P. Taft, the eminent Cincinnati attorney, whose research organization had received the original appropriation, stating:

"Even before you printed the story the research job had already been taken out of our agency and turned over to the National Defense Research Committee, under President Vannoy Bush, of the Carnegie Institution. It is a little hard to keep up with these things!" Isn't it?

Swiss Unity Factors

From the Charleston, W. Va., Daily Mail

With all the hue and cry over democracy, what it means and how to defend it, it might be well to pause for a moment and reflect upon the Swiss Confederation. Somehow that tiny country, situated at the midst of warring and often undemocratic nations, has managed to survive for 650 years, an anniversary which it celebrated last week.

How did it do it? Well, one answer, of course, is that no one outside Switzerland cared much what happened inside it, or, if they cared, could not summon the courage to tackle the Alps in an effort to do something about it. It is certainly true that the longevity of Swiss democracy may be attributed in part to the fact that the country is a natural fortress which few conquerors would dare assault.

That cannot be the whole answer, however. Left to themselves, the Swiss are subject to stresses and strains within which have proved the downfall of hardy governments. As a nation it is compounded of French, Italians and Germans who still speak those respective languages and adhere to the customs of their native lands. Yet they remain loyal Swiss, faithful to the confederation, divided racially, united politically.

The secret of that unity and confederation is the answer to the question of how the Swiss have survived so long. They have done it by placing the governmental emphasis on the community and upon the individual, not upon the nation. They have been democratic in small things, allowing those small things to determine the character of the nation. Thus the German Swiss, the French Swiss and the Italian Swiss are allowed to settle within their own small communities their own particular problems. The result has been the growth and maintenance of a spirit of self-reliance and independence which has bound the people of Switzerland together more firmly than any strong central government could do. It more endures than any dictator has ever managed.

Gasoline Plan Is Another Blundering Shot in the Dark, Gen. Johnson Says

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The present hap hazard helter-skelter unplanned method of cutting gasoline consumption in the eastern part of the United States either isn't going to work or it is going to raise unnecessary and unshared hell with business, employment and economic life of a large part of our population.

A voluntary pledge to cut each citizen's consumption of gas by one-third and the alternative universal threat to ration the use of gas by "pleasure automobiles" to five gallons a week are equally silly.

Walsh, Reynolds Are Headaches For White House

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Ordinarily the Senate's Finance committee chairmanship roles are the most important in that congressional chamber. Just now the most puzzling of all Senate chairmanships is the one at the head of Foreign Affairs committee. The Army and Navy committees are pretty close to the top of the list also.

However, there's very little difference of opinion as to the urgency of keeping Uncle Sam loaded for bear, ashore and afloat, in the face of present world conditions. There's considerable difference of opinion, though, relative to the best system of handling our near-infinite, desperately ticklish foreign relationships.

Has Influence

Of course, a committee chairman in either house of Congress, even only his individual vote when an issue is balloted on. Nevertheless, he does exercise a good bit more than the average lawmaker's influence along the line of legislation that particular committee is recognized as specializing on.

Well, when Chairman Key Pittman of the Senate's Foreign Affairs committee, died not long ago, Senator Walter F. George succeeded him. Chairman vacancies almost invariably are filled on a seniority basis. It isn't an inflexible rule, but it's seldom disregarded. Senator Pat Harrison was Senator George's senior, but Pat already was finance committee chairman and preferred to remain so, and it isn't customary for any senator to hold more than one important chairmanship.

So George got the post, being in line. He hadn't been a New Dealer, and for that reason there was talk of sidelining him, but it would have involved a messy fight with the New Dealers likely to precipitate.

After all, though, George turned out to be heartily co-operative with the administration on all questions of foreign policy.

George Takes over Finances

Then, very lately, Finance Chairman Harrison died. Senator George was due to follow him, provided he relinquished his foreign affairs chairmanship. He did so, and now is finance chairman. Possibly it was a slight come-down, temporary. But (gosh!) how important it is when it comes to framing tax law to meet the defense debt we're piling up! Furthermore, after the Army is locked, international relationships probably won't be so mussy as they are today, and the foreign chairmanship will be materially defined.

In the meantime, Senator Tom Connolly has the foreign affairs job. He inherited it from Senator George. Senator Robert F. Wagner was on the list ahead of him, but Bob's banking and currency chairman and preferred to remain in it. It's a dandy arrangement for the administration's angle.

It always has been a wee bit suspicious of George because of his past anti-New Dealerliness. But it isn't afraid of him at the top of the Finance committee. He'll have to advocate taxes, whether or not to take care of that defense indebtedness—and he's pretty good at financial legislation.

And Tom Connolly, while he differed from the administration on a few questions, is rip-sporting in favor of all its foreign policies. He's a first rate scrapper, too, and can fight for 'em like fury.

Navy Chairman David I. Walsh and Military Affairs Chairman Robert R. Reynolds aren't so administratively satisfactory.

Two Headaches

Dave Walsh has held his chairmanship for a long while. He's got a thumping big navy all right, but is pretty skittish as to some of the uses he surmises that the president, as its commander-in-chief, is liable to put to it.

Bob Reynolds gravitated into military leadership, by seniority, upon the death of Chairman Morris Sheppard, not far back. He's for a whole of an army, but strongly opposes its employment an inch outside of the western hemisphere. He isn't an enthusiast for the administration's foreign policies either. On this subject he's a deal of worry to administrators for he's been an extensive world traveler in his day, understands overseas conditions better than the people he disagrees with can out-argue 'em—has written books about his journeys and speaks with authority.

Tom Connolly, where he is, is ideal, from the White House angle. Walter George is O. K.—more now than he was when he was where Tom is at present. Bob Reynolds and Dave Walsh are headaches.

After returning from a trip to Baltimore and New York, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside at 52 Ormond street.

Water Rates Raised

Effective September 1, in compliance with an order issued by the Public Service Commission of Maryland, the Frostburg-Grahamtown Water Company will increase its rate from sixty-five cents to eighty-five cents per thousand gallons for water supplied to seventy-nine families in the Grahamtown area. The company purchases water from the city at forty cents per thousand gallons and has been operating on a meter system since March, 1939.

Auditors for the Public Service Commission have visited here several times recently for the purpose of establishing a rate that would enable the company to continue operations with a fair profit. The rate, first set at sixty cents, was later raised to sixty-five cents, but the company continued to show a loss. The rate of eighty-five cents was decided upon as the only means of enabling the company to meet expenses and furnish sufficient water.

York Ballad Is Sung and Played At Mt. Lake Park

Composed by Jilson Setters, 'Singing Fiddler' of Lost Hope Hollow

OAKLAND, Aug. 10.—A ballad of Sgt. Alvin York, world war hero, composed by Jilson Setters, the singing fiddler of Lost Hope Hollow, the only primitive Kentucky mountain minstrel to have sung and played his own and Elizabethan ballads in Royal Albert Hall in London, was played and sung for the first time this afternoon in the amphitheatre in Mt. Lake Park as part of the Folk Festival program presented there under the auspices of the Maryland Chautauque.

The ballad was played by Sid Hatfield, grandson of Devil Anse Hatfield, leader of the Hatfield-McCoy feud of years ago, and sung by Jean Thomas, the trapeze woman of the Kentucky mountains, who brought her Kentucky and West Virginia people here for the program today.

Author Is Blind

Setters, able to neither read nor write, having been blind most of his life, nevertheless has composed and set to tune more than 100 ballads, the last of which was "The Ballad of Sergeant York." Setters had planned to come to the park today with Miss Thomas but was unable to do so on account of illness.

Miss Thomas, here today, said that Setters had never met York but the story of the war hero's

Two Escape Injury In Leap from Blazing Building

Two-Story Six-Room House Is Destroyed by Fire near Barton

BARTON, Aug. 10.—Two persons escaped injury yesterday afternoon when they were forced to jump from a second-story window of a blazing dwelling near here.

They were John Pattison, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pattison, the owners of the house, and an unidentified fireman, who had gone into the building in an effort to salvage some of the contents.

The six-room frame house was razed by the flames, with the loss of building and contents estimated at $2,500. Some furniture and clothing were saved through the efforts of Mr. Pattison's mother, Mrs. John Pattison Cassell, 76, who threw them out an upstairs window, but through some quick of fate, no shoes were salvaged. About 700 cans and jars of preserved fruits and vegetables were destroyed, along with a pile of lumber near the house.

Mrs. Pattison, who was washing windows, discovered the blaze and ran barefooted the two miles to Barton to summon firemen, who battled the fire for three hours. She had first sought to quell the flames herself and suffered slight burns about the hands. The fire, which apparently started on the outside of the kitchen, was blamed on a defective fuse.

Firemen were handicapped in their efforts by lack of water and were forced to supplement a meager supply drawn from a nearby spring with chemicals after emptying their 100-gallon portable tank.

Pattison, an employee of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, was shopping in Keyser at the time. He had smelled smoke Friday night, but found nothing amiss when he investigated. The family had burned some rubbish and old rags Friday.

The Pattisons are former residents of Westernport.

Elizabeth Spicer Becomes Bride of Sandy Bell, Jr.

Ceremony Is Performed in Bride's Home by the Rev. F. C. Taylor

Before a screen of bamboo, coral vine and plumbago in the garden of her mother's home in Clewiston, Fla., Miss Anne Elizabeth Spicer, daughter of Mrs. Leah L. Spicer and Dr. John H. Spicer, this city became the bride of Sandy Bell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Bell, Sr., August 3, with the Rev. Forest C. Taylor, former minister of the Clewiston Community church, now of Port Lauderdale, officiating.

Miss Roberta Spicer was maid of honor, Miss Ella Faye Price, Miss Patricia Campbell, Miss Christine Bell and Mrs. Reginald Cassidy were the bridesmaids. Janet Deadwyler, niece of the bridegroom was the flower girl.

J. Robert Deadwyler was best man, Edward Clark, John Perry, W. C. Owens, Jr., and Charles Roberts were the ushers.

A program of nuptial music was given by Mrs. John H. Doty, pianist and Robert N. Smith, vocalist.

The bride who was given in marriage by H. R. Hall, was attired in a gown of white marquisette. Bands of Desprit lace trimmed the bodice and the full skirt fell in a long train. Her finger tip length veil of white illusion was held by a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of rosebuds, tube roses and baby breath.

The maid of honor wore a rose taffeta gown. The fitted bodice was made with a deep lace yoke and short sleeves and the full skirt was tiered. Her picture hat was of rose mauline and her bouquet was tied with blue.

The maids of honor were dressed in blue taffeta made similar to the gown of the maid of honor, their hats were blue mauline and their arm bouquets of garden flowers were tied with pink tulle.

The flower girl wore a floor length dress of blue marquisette with a matching hat. She scattered rose-petals from a pink arm basket.

Mrs. Bell is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Levig, formerly of near Meyersdale. She was graduated from Clewiston high school and received her A. B. degree from Florida State College for Women. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and Alpha Chi Alpha, and is clerk to the Handy County Selective Service Board.

Mr. Bell is a graduate of Lake Worth high school and is cashier of the Clewiston Realty and Development Corporation.

An informal wedding reception followed the ceremony.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Bell will reside in the Allenton house, on Pacific avenue.

Mrs. Bell's going away costume was a powder blue tailored dress with harmonizing blue and pink accessories.

CHAPTER TWENTY

NONE OF the disappointment Ylena felt at learning that Brodie, the hatchet-faced foreman, was to be their driver, showed on her face. It was serene as she gazed at Scott. He looked bronzed and handsome in a dark, hand-stitched, knee-length shirt. Definitely the cowboy she had dreamed of. Ylena wondered the women looked at him! Unbelievably, Ylena found herself resenting their interest, then quickly forced aside that twinge of jealousy and climbed into the station wagon.

Back in La Madera the hospitable Aunt Daisy's persistent invitations, but the girl refused. She took her car out of Aunt Daisy's garage and again went to the Alvarez hotel. As she had on her first day in that little city, she stopped in her room looking out over the business buildings, ranch houses, desert hills. Here I am, she thought, exactly where I started. Actually, I'm no nearer having Carlie, I'm all alone. And I haven't a home. Then she corrected herself. No, not exactly where I started, because now I do have friends and money.

In the advertising section of the paper slipped beneath her door the following morning, Ylena noticed the description of a shop which she felt sure would suit her needs. Included in a lengthy list of rentals it was headed by the names, Cromwell and Cromwell. She lifted the receiver and asked to be connected with that real estate firm, then as quickly changed her mind and requested breakfast.

To the waiter who brought her tray she gave a dollar tip and instructions.

A moment later he turned from the telephone to report: "$3,500 a year." Helpfully he added: "It sounds like that place on the corner of Alvarado and Main boulevard. I know it's empty and it has an apartment above. It's a grand location, lady." He gave a chuckle. "You know how old man Cromwell is, practically had to hang up on him to keep from giving my name."

Ylena thanked him. "Don't mention it to anyone."

"I should say not. And thank you."

Two or three hours later Ylena had called the Cromwell offices, asking for Mr. Cromwell, Sr. Finally able to stop his hilarious bubbling, he said, "I've got some more money. Do you want it?"

He said, "Of course I want it, child. Do you think I'm crazy? I'll send someone right out to get it."

"Send them to the Alvarez hotel."

"The Alvarez?" he shouted. "Yeni! That reminds me. I thought we were going to sell that ranch for you. Then about the time I get at prospect here comes the report that you've sold."

"I had a lucky break," she laughed. "But I'm giving you another chance to skin me, so what are you fussing about? Have a salesman here at 3 o'clock." Let it be Tate or let it not be. She did not care.

In between time Ylena went to a specialty shop and was outfitted in a new sport dress of beige flannel with a hand-knit sweater of green. To guard her eyes from the hot, winter afternoon desert sun, she picked out wide-rimmed dark glasses and then, just because she felt like it, she added a crazy, three-strand necklace of fat pinto beans that tied about her neck with a little green suede bow. Then she went to the hotel to await her appointment. As she stepped from the hotel elevator in answer to the operator's announcement, she was flabbergasted. The man waiting directly beside the clerk's desk was a decidedly uncomfortable Percy O'Neil. When the girl saw him she made a dead stop, then progressed slowly.

Her eyes were narrowed and she held him away from the vicinity of the curious clerk. "Don't tell me you're the salesman? I'm not so sure I want to go with you."

Percy's fat face flushed. "I'm no more pleased about it than you. But what can you do when—"

Ylena interrupted rudely, "When Pop Cromwell says, 'Get to work! So you're in business.' She grinned like a street urchin and continued her insolence. "Sometimes when I have a free week I'd love to hear about your selling the Grand Canyon. I'm sure you've turned a number of big deals like that. Since you're so displeased about showing me around, I've decided to go after all. I'll probably enjoy myself."

Percy looked at her. This was not the quiet Ylena of that Sunday dinner. "My car is out front," he gruffly offered.

"Oh," she said with meaning when they reached the curved entrance at the side of the hotel. "Tate's car. I'm not going to ride in Tate's car. Francis might not like it. We'll go in mine."

Not giving him a chance to protest, she led the way to her own machine, parked across the street. She slid behind the wheel and pressed the button that let down the top.

"I think I'll ask you to excuse me," Percy stood, foot on the running board.

Ylena kept right on snapping the clamps that held down the folded top. "I have a $3,500 check in my purse, already made out to Cromwell and Cromwell. And it's a good one." She shook her head at O'Neil, who was puffing with fury. "You know perfectly well Pop Cromwell won't like it if I call and tell him you were rude to me." She slid behind the wheel.

Percy crawled in beside her, holding himself stiffly erect. "What sort of place do you want?" he asked curtly.

She gave an airy retort. "I don't know. You direct me. Show me what you have and I'll decide."

As they rode along crowded streets, they attracted a great deal of attention. That strange-eyed, neck-cracking sort. It pleased Ylena and cast a lasting, ruddy glow over Percy.

Ylena smiled as he restlessly moved about. She told him in a pleasant voice, "People will be gossiping about you as much as you did about me."

He ignored her insinuation and barked orders to stop. They looked at the first house. Ylena didn't like it. They looked at a second. She didn't like it either. In answer to her dictatorial commands, for approximately two hours, he showed her first one place, then another. With all she found frank and instantaneous fault; her manner implied that Percy was personally responsible for such atrocities.

Percy O'Neil snapped, "What do you expect for $3,500?"

"Oh, not a hacienda like Mr. Cromwell's where you live. Even so this check doesn't have to pay the total. It could go as a down payment on something a little better than a cowshed."

"You were passing a series of Mexican adobe houses, a half block continuous chain of empty, deserted, dismal shacks. A large wooden Cromwell and Cromwell sign was nailed on a corner."

"My, the firm must be proud of that property."

Percy frowned. "That eyesore is the bane of the Cromwells' life. They've cut the price to practically nothing and still can't get rid of it. How I'd like to poke off that blot on some unsuspecting soul. I'd be the fair-haired boy—hey," he cautioned suddenly, "you'd better start slowing up. The high school and junior college are near here and the traffic cops are strict."

"We mustn't be thrown into jail. There'd be such a scandal, wouldn't there?" Obliging the girl slowed to the required 15 miles per hour as they passed the little village of school buildings. "You'd better show me something else, Mr. O'Neil. So far, I don't like anything."

For another hour Percy responded to her dictatorial wishes. He was perspiring from rage and exertion. "Mass Varanoff," he finally shouted, "are you sure you want a house?"

"No," she answered calmly, "I don't want one."

He exploded. "Then what's the idea of having me waste an entire afternoon?"

"You once put me through one of the most uncomfortable afternoons of my life. I only hope you've been half so uncomfortable."

"I can assure you I have," he snapped.

"Good! Let me warn you, Percy, not to try to hurt me again, because I've built such a defense against being hurt that it really wouldn't give you much pleasure."

"If you've finished, I'll get back to the office."

"Not get. You haven't wasted your afternoon. You'll get this check yet." She reached into her purse and took out the check, also a newspaper clipping. "This is what I'm really interested in." She pointed to the pencil-enclosed advertisement. "Where is this shop?"

"On the corner of Main boulevard and Alvarado road. And I can tell you right now that $3,500 will not get it."

Dancer Romero Goes Jitterbug in New Hit

Dance perfectionist Cesar Romero, who is rated as the leading exponent of the ballroom art in Hollywood, will be shown as a jitterbug in his latest picture for 20th Century-Fox, "Dance Hall," which is now at the Strand theater.

Cesar has had extensive practice in the art of dancing, and is especially expert in the rumba, tango and waltz. He is not, however, contemptuous of "rug cutting." It is, he says, much more difficult than other forms of ballroom dancing and to his way of thinking it is a distinct and valuable addition to the art of Terpsichore.

The jitterbug technique was not hard for Cesar to master, but in order to make sure he was letter perfect, he enlisted the aid of national champions Jewel McGowan and Dean Collins. They found that Cesar had deserved his rating as Hollywood's most adept dancer, and after several hours he had mastered their most intricate steps.

Offering gripping suspense, the first film dealing with hemispheric defense, "Forced Landing," is now at the Strand.

Here's a picture that gives the moviegoer top-flight entertainment and an exciting lesson on the dangers that stalk in the sky when fifth columnists cloak their planes in the clouds of dissension and disunity.

Ted Lewis Brings Band Here Today

"Is everybody happy?" That tag-line means just one thing. Ted Lewis and company will appear at the Maryland theater for a one day engagement today.

He'll bring his clarinet and his orchestra and present a well-rounded unit—the Rhythm Rhapsody Revue. Ted will be on hand with his famous battered top-hat and a host of new and entertaining specialties.

And everybody will be happy because the master showman through the years has never lost the magic touch which transports his audiences into the land of make-believe and genuine entertainment.

Lewis, who recently played his fifty thousandth performance in show business, comes to town with the celebrated dance team of Kay, Ketya and Kay. The trio, fresh from New York stage successes, will present new and novel dance routines.

Also included in the Rhythm Rhapsody Revue are the Le Ann Sisters, charming quartet, Jean Blanche, Gladys Tell and Louise Glenn.

No Ted Lewis show would be complete, of course, without Ted's perennial shadow, Charlie "Snowball" Whittier. "Snowball," himself a veteran at nineteen, has appeared with Lewis for the past thirteen years.

AN EXCITING AND ROMANTIC STORY

Walter Pidgeon, playing the six-foot Texan, Sam Gladney, seems somewhat at loss with the dainty porcelain cup offered him by Greer Garson in this scene from "Blossoms in the Dust," new Technicolor production opening Friday on the Maryland screen. The two are starred in the stirring drama in which Miss Garson enacts a role inspired by the life of Edna Gladney, superintendent of the Texas Children's Home and Aid Society at Fort Worth.

Ginger Rogers' New Film a Laugh Riot

A case of mistaken identity that catapults an imaginative little working girl into hilarious romantic entanglements provides the sprightly basis of Ginger Rogers' current starring film, "Tom, Dick and Harry," now showing at the Liberty. George Murphy, Alan Marshall and Burgess Meredith enact the title roles.

The gay story presents the lovely star as a romantic telephone girl who has a steady boy friend. Her real "secret passion" however is a young scion of wealth who drives a swanky car but whom she has never seen. She meets a good-looking garage mechanic who immediately asks for a date. Before the evening is over they are engaged.

With two affiances to her credit, the romantic young lady chalks up a third when she ultimately does meet the man of her dreams and carried away by his charm, limply accepts his proposal.

Replete with sparkling dialogue, whimsical fantasy and riotous situations, the gay film is said to build a most delightfully surprising climax.

Stunt Man Has Been "Killed" 1,000 Times

To be "killed" more than a thousand times since the sensational crack-up of twelve chariots in "Ben-Hur" in 1926 and to come out of it with but one broken leg is the record of Jack Gallagher, veteran "bumps man."

Today's GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Distributed by Central Press Association

Thrips are minute, inconspicuous bugs 1-16 inch long, which cause serious injury to gladiolus blooms and foliage. They suck the sap or plant life juices.

As illustrated in the Garden-graph, the foliage takes on a silvery, whitened and flecked appearance, eventually it turns brown and dries out of brown sugar in three gallons of water or use one tablespoon Paris green and two pounds of brown sugar in three gallons of water.

Gladiolus thrips winter over on the corns. They can be destroyed by putting the corns in tightly closed paper bags or boxes and adding one ounce of naphthalene flakes to each one hundred corns. Leave for about a month.

Baltimore Teams Tie for Swim Meet Honors

K. of C., Lakewood Tank Crews Each Score 63 Points

Caseys Win Trophy on Toss of Coin—Two Records Broken

Baltimoreans featured the annual Western Maryland swimming and diving championship meet last night at the Celanese pool with the Baltimore Knights of Columbus team winning the Times-News trophy on the toss of a coin.

The Baltimore K. of C. and the Lakewood pool outfit, each of Baltimore, each scored 63 points during the evening and the K. of C. called the toss to win the trophy.

The Celanese A. A. was third with 21 points, Hagerstown municipal pool fourth with 17, the Shoreham Hotel A. C. of Washington fifth with 15 and the Airport pool, Arlington, Va., sixth with 12.

Two new records, both in the women's division, were written in the books by Chambers of Lakewood. She swam the century in 1:07 2-5 and the 200 in 2:42.

The old marks were 1:12 2-3 for the 100 held by Doris Baugher, Baltimore K. of C., and set in 1939, and 2:47 for the 200 held by Patsy Palmer of the Shoreham A. C. and established a year ago.

Chambers also capped the 50-yard backstroke while Russell of Lakewood took the 50-yard breaststroke. Mrs. Margery Kight of the Celanese A. A. won both the high and low-board diving.

In men's events, Welch of Hagerstown won the 100; Daily of the Baltimore K. of C. the 200; Elmbinder of Lakewood the breaststroke; Gillet of the Baltimore K. of C., the backstroke and Baltimore K. of C. the 200-yard relay.

Russell Wins Dives
James Russell of the Baltimore K. of C. won both men's diving titles. Tom Hopwood of the Celanese was third in highboard competition.

Gillet of Baltimore K. of C. Daily of the Baltimore Caseys and Bogler and Peterson, both of Lakewood, finished in that order in both the junior boys' 50-yard dash and 50-yard backstroke.

ME
100-yard dash—Won by Welch, Hagerstown; Daily, Baltimore K. of C., second. 200-yard dash—Won by Daily, Baltimore K. of C., second. 50-yard breaststroke—Won by Elmbinder, Lakewood. 100-yard breaststroke—Won by Elmbinder, Lakewood. 50-yard backstroke—Won by Gillet, Baltimore K. of C., second. 200-yard relay—Won by Baltimore K. of C., second. 100-yard relay—Won by Baltimore K. of C., second.

Bosox, Senators End Series Even

Red Legs Win Double-Header Opener, 7-6, but Lose Nightcap, 8-2

BOSTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Alejandro Carrasquel, Washington's Venezuelan hurler, chalked up his fifth victory of the season today in the second half of a doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox to give the Nats an even split in the four-game series.

Washington bats came to life behind Carrasquel to batter the Sox 8-2 after Manager Joe Cronin and Bobby Doerr had given Boston the necessary edge with home runs in the first game to gain a 7-6 verdict.

In the opener, Earl Johnson, long absent with an arm ailment, started and did fairly well, although his control was off. The Sox hit hard, touching Steve Sundra and Bill Zuber for fourteen hits. Mike Ryba collected credit for the Boston victory, after he relieved Johnson in the fifth when the latter issued three successive bases on balls. The scores:

Texan Captures National Skeet Tournery Honors

C. H. Poulton Defeats California's Alex Kerr in Shootoff

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 10 (AP)—A straight-shooting Texan, from old San Antonio, 41-year-old C. H. Poulton, won the national all-gauge skeet championship at the seventh annual tournament today, beating 29-year-old Alex Kerr of Beverly Hills, Calif., in the longest shoot-off in the clay target classic has ever witnessed.

The Lone Star sharpshooter, after breaking 250 straight in the regular event to tie with the West Coast star, powdered another 175 in a row to take the laurels. Kerr, missing the one hundred fifty-fifth target, a high house clay from the No. 3 station.

Kerr Breaks Records
Kerr, however, had plenty to cheer him up, despite the loss of the big title, which he also lost in a shoot off a year ago at Syracuse.

The blond Californian annexed the sub-small title with 99 of 100, a new record; took the all-around championship with 543 of 550, one off the record pace; captured the world's long run record of 545 with the twelve-gauge to erase the 512 set in 1938 by Max Marcum of Louisville, Ky.

The long run record of 545 is unfinished, the shoot off targets not counting in the string.

Mrs. Smythe Wins
Mrs. M. L. Smythe of Aurora, O., made a runaway race of the women's all-gauge contest, breaking 245 of 250 to build up a five-target edge over the feminine foes.

Mrs. Smythe, who weighs only ninety-eight pounds, also captured the feminine over-all honors with 527 of 550 with all-caliber guns, a new record for the girls.

Fred Missler of Sea-Island, Ga., who entered as a professional, was shifted to the amateur ranks for one event, and then pushed back into the "shoot for pay" brigade, captured the professional all-gauge title with 249 of 250.

City Police Rout Times-News, 15-2

City Police tappers of the Rocking Chair Softball League were too strong for the combined News Blackouts and Times Blitzkriegs in a contest yesterday on the North End playground field and the Coppers had little trouble winning from the "all-stars" 15-2.

"Ace" Baker of Times-News was pounded for eighteen hits by Buchanan getting three, Mulvey four for four and "Sparky" Chisholm a triple and single. The News-men were held to six blows by Chisholm. The score:

Brooklyn Takes Two from Braves To Retain Lead

Police Twice Intervene To Prevent What Approaches Riots

BROOKLYN, Aug. 10 (AP)—The battering Brooklyn Dodgers cashed in on their power and the gule of Freddy Fitzsimmons today to retain their hold on the top rung in the humpy-dumpy National League pennant race as they knocked down the Boston Braves in both ends of a doubleheader, 14-4 and 4-0, before a happy crowd of 29,445.

Pounding three Boston pitchers for seventeen hits in the first game, the Dodgers won going away behind the 13-hit hurling of Luke Hamlin, who hung up his seventh victory of the season.

The Dodgers included in their barrage four doubles and Joe Medwick's fourteenth homer of the year in a tumultuous battle which saw police twice intervene to prevent what approached a riot between the two teams.

In the fifth inning Dick Erickson, second Brave pitcher, clipped Medwick on the right elbow with a pitched ball and then struck Delock Camilli, the next batter, on the back of the head. Quick action by the umpires and police averted trouble.

The pitching wizardry of Fitzsimmons was too much for Boston in the nightcap. The big round man with tumaround delivery and the puzzling knuckle ball shut out the losers with six hits to notch his fifth win of the campaign without a loss. The scores:

Browns Conquer Detroit, 7 to 3

DETROIT, Aug. 10 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns backed Bob Muncie with enough power in their bats to stay in front all the way and defeat the Detroit Tigers 7 to 3 today to split a two-game series.

In winning his seventh game this season, the St. Louis right-hander scattered ten hits and neither walked nor whipped a single batter. He has beaten six times.

Louis (Bob) Newson, touched for nine hits in four innings, lost his sixteenth game. Manager Del Baker sent in Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe to calm the Browns, but they plastered him with six safeties. The scores:

Angott Favored To Defeat Tygh

NBA Lightweight Champ Out To Put Clincher on Jenkins' Bout

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10 (AP)—Sammy Angott, NBA lightweight champion of Washington, Pa., seeking to regain prestige lost in his recent non-title defeat by Ray (Sugar) Robinson, battles Jimmy Tygh, Philadelphia Irishman, here tomorrow night in a ten-round feature of a star-studded card.

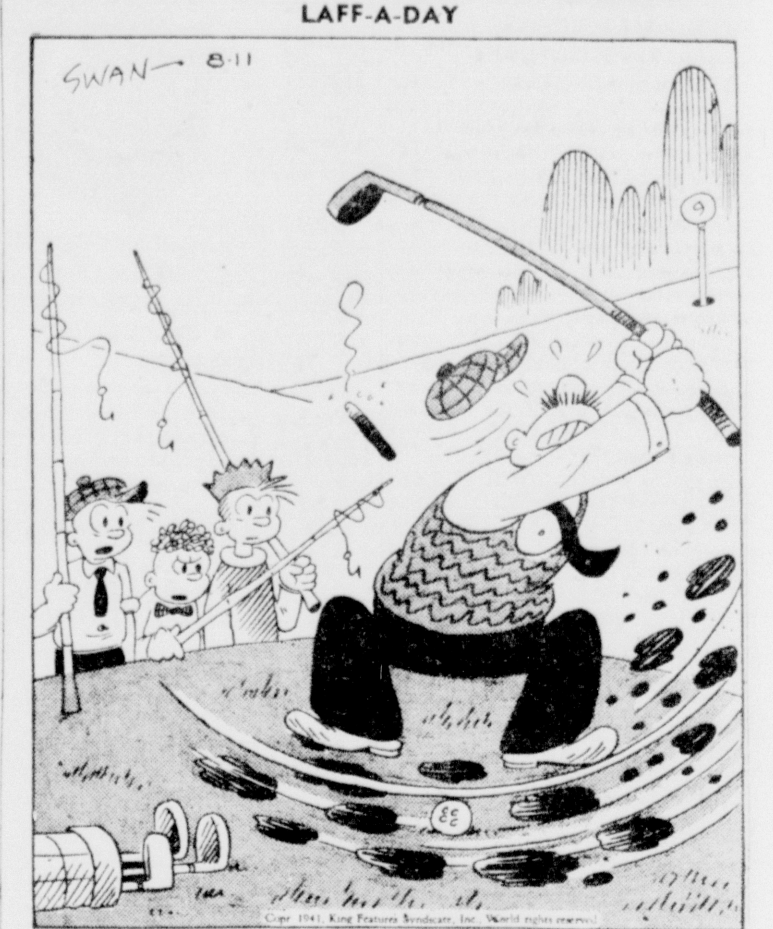

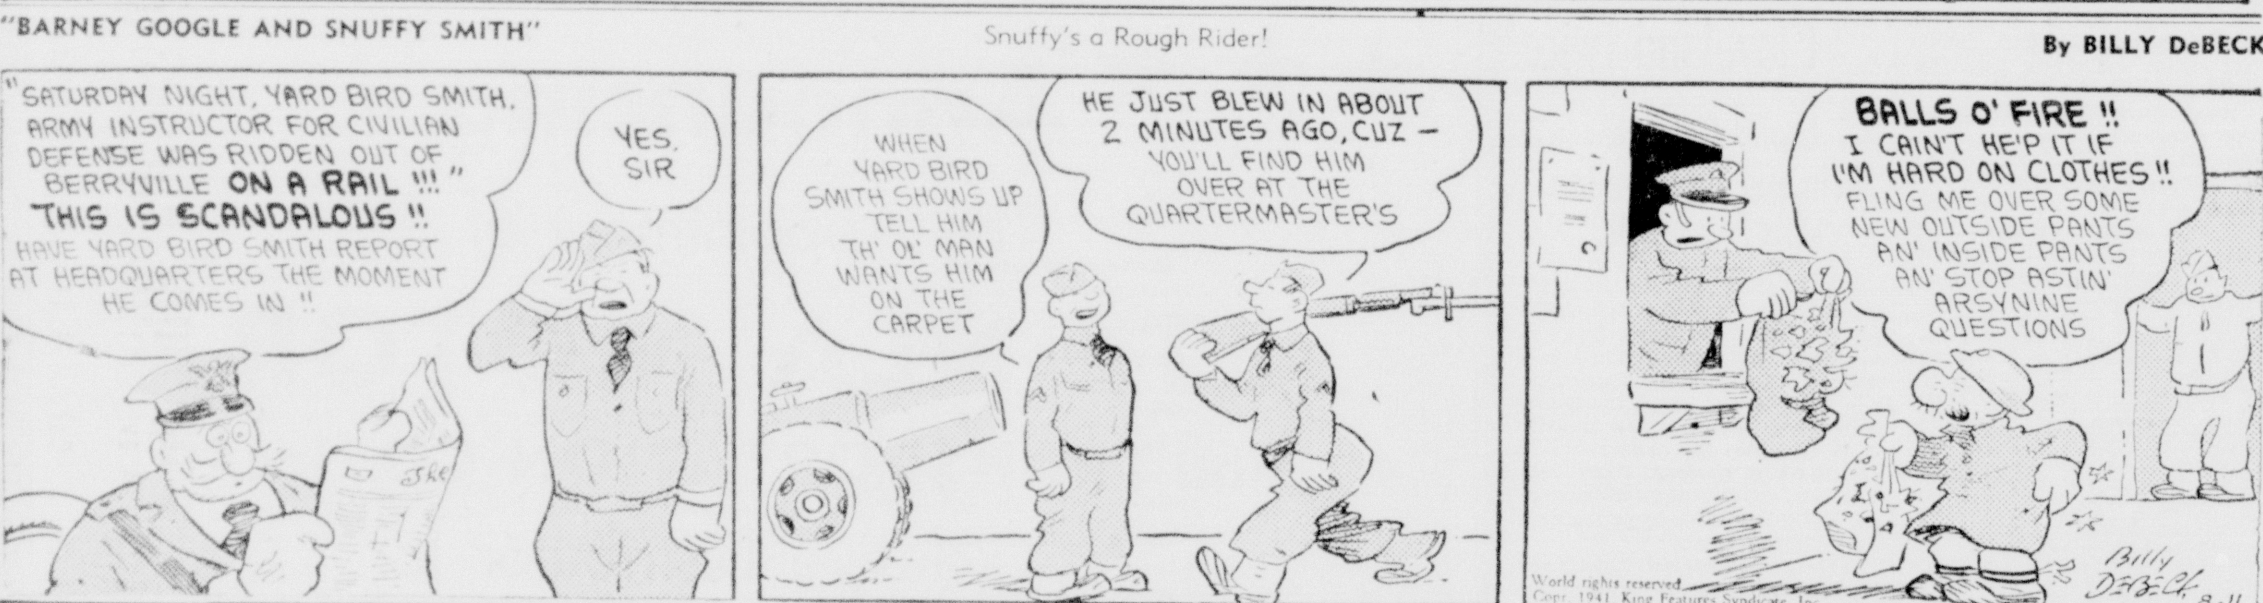

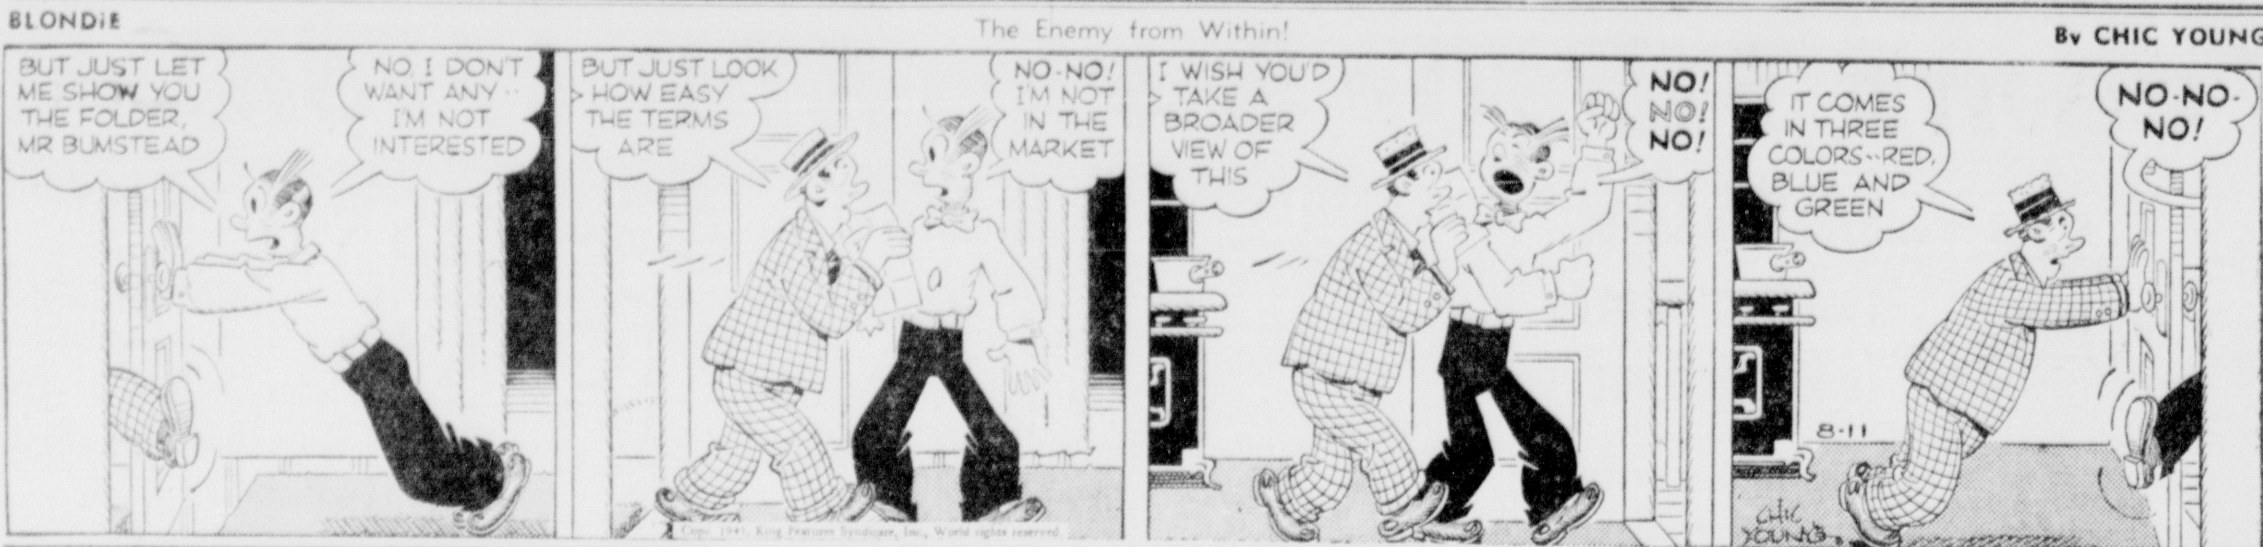

Angott absorbed an artistic pasting in his fust with Robinson, the dusty "lightweight Joe Louis," but he's a heavy favorite to beat Tygh who also lost to Robinson.

Another ten-rounder on tomorrow night's card at Forbes field shows Harry Bobo, giant Pittsburgh negro heavyweight, in a return match with Lee Savold, Des Moines, Iowa, puncher. Bobo won an unpopular decision from Savold on the Billy Conn-Buddy Knox card here in May.

Corporal Mike Raffia, West Virginia boy now fighting out of Port Knox, Ky., with Uncle Sam's permission, faces Harry Jeffra, of featherweight ruler in a third ten-rounder, former bantam and rounder. Raffia is a ranking featherweight.

Dorothy Emerson Will Judge 4-H Girls' Exhibits

All Entries Must Be at Fairgo at 6 p. m., Today; Judging Starts Tuesday

Miss Dorothy Emerson, girls' club agent for the University of Maryland extension service, College Park, will judge 4-H Girls' Club exhibits this week at the Cumberland Fair. It was announced yesterday by Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent.

Miss Bean stressed the fact that all girls must be affiliated with a 4-H club to exhibit and compete for premiums in the 4-H department. Those who are not members of a 4-H club may exhibit in another department.

Deadline Is 6 p. m. Today

The county home demonstration agent emphasized the fact that the household department is open to women of any city or state and urged all those who would like to exhibit their preserved foods, baked products, sewing, needlework and home craft to deliver them to the fair grounds this evening by 6 p. m.

All canned and preserved goods must have been put up since the 1940 Cumberland Fair, all plain and fancy sewing must have been done during 1940-41, all fancy articles, embroidery, crocheting, weaving and knitting must have been made by the exhibitor during the past three years and rugs and quilts completed in the last five years. All canned and preserved goods must be exhibited in standard containers of clear glass with lids. No paper covered container will be accepted.

A new department added to the fair this year is the garden products department for girls. Heretofore premiums for boys only were offered in this department, Miss Bean said.

Judging Opens Tuesday

Miss Bean pointed out that more than half of the thirty girls who attended the 4-H Club Week program last week in College Park paid their expenses from cash premiums they received at the local 1940 fair. She added that ten women went to the Short Course at College Park this year on money they received from last year's fair exhibits. One girl alone "cleaned up" to the extent of $15 in the 4-H exhibits in 1940 and was among those attending the 4-H Week program.

The household and 4-H exhibits will be judged tomorrow and Wednesday, Miss Bean said.

Symphonic Band To Be Organized

Organization of a sixty-five-piece symphonic band is planned here next month, according to a week-end announcement.

The organization, to be known as the Cumberland Symphonic Band, hopes to draw some of its membership from other musical organizations, with whose activities it does not wish to interfere. A community organization devoted to performance of concert music, it will not be a marching unit, nor will it be affiliated with any particular group. Jack Platt, director of the Cumberland Choral Society, and the Allegany high school band, is scheduled to direct the band. Platt now at Penn State college will return to Cumberland September 1, and the first meeting is scheduled shortly afterwards.

Freedom of Press Will Be Subject Of VFW Address

Acquittal of Peter Zenger To Be Theme of Talk by William McKenzie

Those who would destroy liberty direct their first assaults upon the freedom of the press, declares William L. McKenzie, who will discuss the importance of the free press in the ninth of a monthly series of "Speak Up for Democracy" radio talks to be broadcast over Station WTBO today at 7:45 p. m.

Speaking as a member of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, McKenzie will take for his theme the two hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the acquittal of Peter Zenger, whose editorial attacks upon Governor Cosby of New York in 1734 marked the first court test on freedom of the press in the American colonies before the Declaration of Independence was adopted.

Peter Zenger, a German immigrant, was publisher of the "New York Weekly Journal." His editorials criticized the tyrannical rule of the New York governor who ordered Zenger jailed and tried on the charge of "seditious libel." Andrew Hamilton, the greatest lawyer in the colonies, volunteered to defend Zenger and his vigorous appeal for the protection of a free press was one of the first voices heard in America in defense of the right to print the truth.

The same message to be delivered to radio listeners in this area by McKenzie will be broadcast on the same day through the facilities of nearly 425 radio stations located in all sections of the country.

Residents Don't Want Garbage Truck Garage Built on Bedford St.

A petition signed by fifty-four property owners, who object to the erection of a garage for city garbage trucks in the 1300 block Bedford street, will be presented to the Mayor and City Council at its regular meeting this morning.

Application for a permit to erect the garage has been made by Emmitt A. Dougherty, city garbage contractor, but issuance of the permit has been held up pending a hearing for those who oppose the construction on the ground that such a building is objectionable in a residential section. The petitioners also contend that a garage for garbage trucks will depreciate real estate in that section of the city.

Kempton Man Is Fatally Stabbed Near Thomas

Authorities Are Searching for Alleged Slayer of James Hilton

PARSONS W. VA., Aug. 10.—Police of Tucker and nearby counties tonight were hunting Charles D. Nunley, alias "Cabin Creek," 43, who officers have charged with fatally stabbing James "Red" Hilton, 22, of Kempton at 10:30 p. m. at Silver Lake Park, seven miles from Thomas, on U. S. Route 219.

According to witnesses, state police said, Nunley, who is employed in Kempton but whose address is unknown, walked up behind Hilton at Silver Lake and knocked him down with a well directed punch on the jaw and then made a hasty exit. Upon regaining his feet Hilton, and a companion, Alfred Lipscomb, started chasing the assailant down a road. Lipscomb was the first to catch up with Nunley and was stabbed in the arm. In the meantime Hilton had jumped on Nunley in an effort to protect Lipscomb only to have "Cabin Creek" turn on him and sink a knife into him in three places. One stab on the right side of the chest penetrated the lung while two stabs on the left side of the chest entered the left lung and heart.

Rushed to the Tucker County hospital here, Hilton was given a hypodermic by a Thomas physician, but later was pronounced dead after reaching the hospital. Eight stitches were required to close the wound in Lipscomb's arm.

Joseph Kuback, Kempton; Gerald Beckman, Oakland; Howard Nethken, Pursglove, and Ione Hynes, Douglas, who brought Hilton to the hospital were questioned by Sheriff Fred Long and released.

An investigation into the case is being conducted by Sheriff Long, Corp. Gaile Bush and Trooper R. G. Coen, of the West Virginia State Police. A description of the alleged killer was also given to Troopers Davis and Lanham, state police stationed in Preston county, and broadcast to other nearby sub-stations.

An inquest will be held tomorrow at 6 p. m. at Silver Lake Park.

Driver Is Arrested On City Charge After Crash

A careless driving charge was placed against Mortimer Twigg, of RFD 2, Williams road, yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock following a minor accident on Baltimore street.

According to police, the milk truck driven by Twigg struck a parked car. He was released under $10 bond, pending a hearing today in police court.

Officer Theodore Rose investigated.

Woman Granted Divorce And Custody of Child

Mrs. Mary C. Jenkins won an absolute divorce from Harold Jenkins Saturday in circuit court.

The decree, signed by Associate Judge William A. Huster, grants Mrs. Jenkins custody of a minor child. Desertion was charged by the plaintiff, who was represented by Albert A. Doub Jr., attorney.

Delegates to Legion and "Box Car" Convention To Leave on Wednesday

Two Local Men To Seek State Offices; Drum Corps To Compete Friday

Delegates and alternates of Port Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, and Cumberland Voltire, of the Forty and Eight Society, will leave here Wednesday to attend sessions of the Maryland Department, American Legion convention in Baltimore.

Selective Service Registrants Are Entitled to Appeal

Cannot Be Denied Right to Disagree with Classification by Board

Local draft boards have been informed by Lieut. Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state director of Selective Service, that every registrant is entitled to appeal from any classification by his local board and no one has the right to deny him that privilege.

In all cases local boards and government appeal agents must make every effort to insure protection of the registrant's right of appeal regardless of whether or not they think the appeal is justified, Lieut. Col. Stanwood asserted.

Any registrant who is dissatisfied with a determination of his local board may appeal the decision to the board of appeals and no one has legal power to interfere with his efforts to get a review of his case, the director said.

Cites Regulations

Citing Selective Service regulations relating to appeals, the director pointed out that a registrant, any person who claims to be a dependent of a registrant, or any person who has filed written evidence of the occupational necessity of the registrant, may appeal from any local board classification.

The regulations also provide, he said, that appeals may be taken by a government appeal agent for his local board area, a state director of Selective Service for any local board area in his state, and the director of Selective Service.

Pointing out that the registrant or his dependents must appeal within ten days after mailing of the registrant's notice of classification (unless the time is extended), the director outlined the provision of the regulations on how an appeal is taken as follows:

"Any person entitled to do so may appeal in either of the following ways:

"(1) By filing with the Local Board a written notice of appeal. Such notice need not be in any particular form but must state the name of the registrant and the name and identity of the person appealing so as to show the right of appeal.

"(2) By signing the Appeal to Board of Appeal on the Questionnaire 'Form forty'."

May Show Errors

The person appealing may attach to his notice of appeal, or to his questionnaire, a statement specifying the respects in which he believes the local board erred; may direct attention to any information in the registrant's file which he believes the local board has failed to consider or give sufficient weight; and may set out in full any evidence which was offered to the local board and which the local board failed or refused to include in the registrant's file, Col. Stanwood emphasized.

Neither registrants nor representatives of the system are permitted to appear before boards of appeal, however, the director said.

Two Washington Men Arrested at Fairgo On Gambling Charge

Two Washington men who gave their names as David Fuhr, 30, and Charles H. Redmond, 42, negro, were arrested Saturday at Fairgo by State Police Sgt. Charles W. Magaha on a gambling charge.

Both were being held last night in the county jail pending a hearing today at Cresaptown before Magistrate Roy B. Bowman.

Sgt. Magaha said the men operated a three-card monte game in which a LaVale man lost $10.

Two Slightly Hurt As Cars Collide

Two persons were slightly hurt yesterday afternoon when two cars collided at the corner of Shawnee and Holland streets.

William M. Weatherholt, of 211 Water street, suffered a knee injury and his young daughter, Mary Lou, a bruise on the head. Mrs. Weatherholt escaped unhurt.

The Weatherholt car was said to have been struck by an automobile driven by Lee Moore, of 487 Central avenue. Moore and a woman passenger were uninjured.

'Ain't This Philadelphia?' Asks Man Rescued from the Potomac

One more week and Cumberland will return to normal, or near normal, at least and local citizens will settle down to their customary way of living. The horse-racing gentry will leave town and peace will reign.

But it will be many a day before folks hereabouts will stop talking about what seems destined to be the greatest "hoss" racing jamboree in Fairgo's history. Post mortems will continue at least until next August.

"Now I told you, John," said Mrs. Whoozoo "to bet that there Gluefoot to place and not to win, didn't I?"

"Sure you did, Mirandy," replied John, but my Uncle Pete used to say 'Let the tail go with the hide' and 'Whole hog or none' so I ups and bets the two bucks right on the nose of Gluefoot and how, I ask you, was I going to know he would run true to his name and do no better'n second?"

"If" said Aunt Sarah, "I'd listened to that fellow who knows a girl friend of Palumbo's brother instead of to that newspaper fellow I'd a bet Nobody's Business in the double instead of that beagle I did bet on and I'd a won."

"If" lamented a red-headed gal who has eight sisters and four brothers, "I'd a sent some bets out to the track instead of listening to all my family I'd a won myself some dough, but as it is it makes no difference to me whether Mr. Roosevelt will let us wear silk or cotton, I'm broke and can't buy either."

Hundreds of others are lifting all over town. It is easy to see how the bets should have been made, but it's too late now. All a fellow can do is to wait the opening of the racing season here in 1942 and hope that Mister Ickes will allow him enough gas to get out to the track and back—provided Mister Timson doesn't have him in the army when, of course, he will not care much which horse wins.

An army of youngsters—nearly 30,000 strong—will take to the highways and byways of Maryland when the schools open in the fall and the boys and girls who have reached school age this year start their training in the three R's.

Parents of these youngsters are reminded by Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the state department of health of certain things that should be attended to and of one, in particular, that MUST be done, before the youngsters may be received at any public school in the state.

"That one MUST" is vaccination against smallpox, which is compulsory in Maryland. Of this requirement and of the other things that should be done, Dr. Riley said "In accordance with our state law, a child must be vaccinated against smallpox before he or she may be enrolled at any public school in Maryland. Largely through the observance of this law, the state has been kept comparatively free from smallpox—we have not had a case of that disease for over ten years—but smallpox is widely prevalent in other parts of the country; is highly contagious, and the only way to be protected against it is by vaccination.

"Diphtheria is just as prevalent as smallpox, and just as dangerous for the child who has not been protected against it. But, fortunately, through the use of toxoid, a child can be protected against diphtheria as readily as against smallpox by vaccination. So, we can, and do, urge every mother whose child has not been protected against this disease to have it done, at once. Please have it done, at once. Please physical check-up some time before starting in at school so that conditions that need correction may be attended to and the children can enter school free from handicap that might cause ill health later on if neglected now. ## Harry Bramble Is Arrested Again; to Face Two Charges

Harry W. Bramble, of RPD 2, Cumberland, was arrested Saturday night by State Police Sgt. Charles W. Magaha and lodged in the city jail to face two state motor law charges which grew out of a "wild driving spree" July 29 on the West Side.

Bramble failed to appear last Wednesday in trial magistrates court for a hearing, but Magistrate Frank A. Perdue refused to accept his $112 bond as forfeiture.

According to police, Bramble's car struck several automobiles and crashed against an iron fence and a tree and damaged shrubbery. He escaped injury.

Loaf of Bread to Cost Penny More Here

Because of increased baking costs, the price of bread in the Cumberland area is scheduled to advance one cent a loaf "some time this week," according to spokesmen for local bakers.

A similar price increase is to go in effect this week in other cities in Maryland and nearby states, including Hagerstown, Baltimore, Johnstown, Altoona and Pittsburgh, it was said.

Costs of baking ingredients have shown marked advances since the first of the year, it was pointed out, with the price of flour up forty per cent, sugar twenty-five per cent, shortening fifty-five per cent and lard 100 per cent.

The retail price increase will represent an advance of less than fifteen per cent.

Civil Service Board Will Hear Smallwood Case on Wednesday

John W. Smallwood, patrol driver of the Cumberland Police Department, dismissed Thursday, July 31 by Commissioner James Orr on a charge of selling a bicycle held by the city, to a resident of Ridgeley, W. Va., will receive a hearing before the local Civil Service Board Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the city hall auditorium.

Smallwood, a member of the Cumberland Police Department for twenty years, filed an appeal to the board five days after he was dismissed.

Members of the board which will conduct the hearing are Jesse W. Korris, chairman, Dr. E. R. Kellough and Clifton E. Fuller.

State Experiments To Immunize Bees, Abrams Declares

Beekeepers Told How Efforts Are Made To Wipe Out Foul Brood Disease

Experiments are now being conducted at the University of Maryland to raise queen bees and colonies of bees immune to the American foul brood disease, which has made its appearance in the Old Line state in recent years, George H. Abrams, of the state university's extension department, told members of the Mountain Chapter of the Maryland Beekeepers' Association, Saturday, at a meeting in the home of John H. Lindner, president, Shade's Lane.

The American foul brood disease, which made its first appearance in Allegany county two years ago, plays havoc with bees and the only means by which the disease can be kept from spreading is by burning the infected hives.

30 Hives Destroyed Here

In 1939 approximately thirty hives of bees were destroyed in the vicinity of Amelle and recently the disease is reported to have made its appearance in the Potomac Park section.

Whole colonies of bees contract the disease once it makes its appearance and if it is not stamped out immediately it will spread to other hives, causing considerable loss to beekeepers. It is estimated that there are 100,000 bees in a normal colony, according to John Lindner, president of Mountain Chapter. Lindner declared that the American foul brood disease is more deadly than the European type.

Abrams pointed out that the University of Maryland is now providing funds for the state-wide inspection of bees and information may be obtained by writing to College Park. He also told the beekeepers that the state university offers a winter course in bee culture and urged local men to take advantage of it.

Edward J. Anderson, state apiarist, of Penn State college, Pa., spoke on the various methods used in handling bees in the Keystone state, and answered numerous questions pertaining to the raising of bees.

Speaks on Queen Bees

Fair, which will get under way tomorrow, president of the Maryland Beekeepers' Association, gave a talk on "Two Queens to a Hive", stressing the methods of experimenting and how successful they were in his section of the state.

Fifty beekeepers of Allegany and Garrett counties and nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania towns attended the meeting, which is held each year in advance of the bee-culture exhibit of the Cumberland Fair, which will get under way tomorrow at Fairgo. Abrams and Kelly will act as judges.

The bee-catching contest, scheduled as a special feature, was cancelled on account of the meeting being concluded at a late hour.

Bedford Woman Is Injured in Fall

Mrs. Bertha Miller, 39, of Bedford, Pa., was treated last night in Allegany hospital for a possible collarbone fracture and a left index finger injury suffered in a fall down steps.

She was discharged after receiving treatment.

Writer Who Publicized Cumberland For Willard-Dempsey Boul Is Dead

Named Local Promoter "Maryland, My Maryland" Snyder

The man who publicized Cumberland as the logical site for the Jess Willard-Jack Dempsey world's heavyweight championship fight in 1919 and dubbed John W. Snyder, local promoter, "Maryland, My Maryland" Snyder, is dead.

Buried at the bottom of a sports page of one of the metropolitan dailies, Saturday, the following news item appeared:

ANDOVER, Mass., Aug. 8.—Vincent Treanor, sixty-four, sports editor of the old New York World, where he was employed for many years, died today at the home of his son, Vincent, Jr.

A native of New York, he had been a steward at several horse race tracks after his retirement from newspaper work. He leaves three sons and a daughter.

Navy Week Here Comes to Close With Concert

Large Crowd Hears Fort Cumberland Post Band Play in Park

Navy Week came to a close here last night with a concert in the Constitution park amphitheater by the Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion Band.

A varied program was enjoyed by an audience estimated to number nearly 3,000. As usual, many families were in the crowd, and, as present, old and young, seemed to have a good time at another in these increasingly popular outdoor programs.

"Beer Barrel Polka" Popular

Although not scheduled on the program, the "Beer Barrel Polka" again proved to be the favorite. Requested by a group from Pittsburgh, it drew enthusiastic applause from the audience, as always.

Another number played by the band, under the baton of Joseph M. Fradiska, which met with popular approval was "The Shamrock Waltz," by Theo. Moses-Tobias. Still another feature was the singing of "The Marine Hymn" by W. E. Caspaldi, accompanied by the band.

The speaking program was by John R. Kelly, commander of Legion post, made the address, welcome, and other talks were made by Mayor Harry Irvine and Chief Signalman George J. Carroll, navy recruiting officer here.

Both Mayor Irvine and Carroll lauded the conduct of Navy Week last week and expressed the hope that Cumberland might furnish still more men for Uncle Sam's expanding navy. Carroll thanked city officials and various civic organizations, including the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign War and the Junior Association of Commerce for their co-operation.

Bowers Presides

The speakers were introduced by Robert C. Bowers, president of the band and former commander of the Legion post, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Other numbers offered by the band, besides those mentioned, included "Semper Fidelis," by John Philip Sousa; "Blue Danube Waltz," by Johann Strauss; "The Merry Olden Polka," by Jerry Browne; "Hugabone Comedy Overture," by Karel Bala; "Wise Old Owl," by Joe Karcade; "You're a Grand Old Flag," by George M. Cohan; "On the Mail," by Edwin Franko Goldman; "The Leathernecks," by Gunter Tabor; and "Anchors Aweigh," by Charles A. Zimmerman. The program was concluded with the playing of the national anthem.

Observance of Navy Week has previously reached its climax Saturday night when four youths of the Cumberland area took the oath of allegiance as naval recruits in a public ceremony on the city hall steps.

The quartet, selected from a score of men who volunteered for a six-year enlistment, were William T. Hayden, of 100 Independence street, Cumberland; Lewis W. Shaw, Frostburg; Harry G. Sanders, Cresskill; and Richard E. Shepp, Keyser, W. Va. They are scheduled to leave tomorrow for Norfolk, Va., to begin their preliminary training.

The oath was administered by Lieut.-Commander Dan McHenry, of the Baltimore recruiting station, and Mayor Harry Irvine, introduced by James Alfred Alviret, spoke briefly.

A parade through the downtown section preceded the ceremony, with units of the Legion and the VFW participating, accompanied by their bands and color guards.

Mute Negro Youth Is Arrested Here After Wild Chase

Donald E. Smith Faces Two State Charges; Paroled before

A 20-year-old mute negro youth who played a brief "game of tag" with police yesterday morning in a high-powered car is being held in the city jail on charges of violating two state motor laws.

He gave his name as Donald E. Smith, 315 Central avenue, and a police check-up revealed that he was paroled several months ago in circuit court on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He was involved in the slugging of a Westmore street service station attendant, police said.
